

Traffic at Shokan At Standstill as Esopus Still Rages

Reservoir Is Replenished of Tons of Debris Including Household Effects—Canned Goods for C. C. C. at Beloville.

Shokan, Aug. 25.—Automobile travel through Shokan, normally a heavy traffic center, was virtually at a standstill today as the Esopus creek continued to pour its muddy flood waters over the state road a few rods north of Wines' Garage at Cold Brook. At noon the star route mail carrier from Margaretville had not yet reached this village on his daily trip to Kingston and no carload mail had left the local post-office. Many persons journeyed to Cold Brook, at the Olive-Shandaken town line, to view the raging Esopus as it carried towards the reservoir on its swollen crest an ever-increasing assortment of posts, trees, driftwood, pieces of buildings and even household effects. The excitement during the early part of the forenoon centered around the junction of the Wittenberg road and Route 28, from which vantage point the dwelling of Carleton Bramer and family, supposedly marooned by the flood, could be indistinctly made out through the screen of trees bordering the east bank of the creek. It was thought, during the time that feverish preparations were being made for their rescue by boat, that the Bramers had not left their home, and it was not until 10 o'clock that a telephone call from Mr. Tremper reported the family's safe arrival at the Randall house. Mr. Bramer, who is employed as a milk truck driver by Harry Bailey at the Bechtold Farms, and who resides in one of Mr. Bailey's houses, had not appeared for work in the morning according to his custom and Mr. Bailey was duly concerned over his supposed plight.

New York City Board of Water Supply officials from Kingston who came to Cold Brook during the forenoon to take measurements of the flow of water in the Esopus and to view flood conditions generally included E. P. Ward and Eben F. Buswell, both formerly of Shokan; Mr. McManus and William Goldsboro. Thousands of tons of driftwood were carried down the creek into the west basin of the reservoir, while an incalculable amount of silt will be deposited on the reservoir floor as a result of the flood. Major George W. Easterday, commanding officer at the conservation corps camp at Beloville, early visited the Cold Brook sector to offer his services and those of the men and equipment of the camp if these were needed. Others who were active at the scene included Harry Bailey, Trooper Coons, Fire Chief Murphy of Kingston, Burton Feeny of Beloville, Claude Bell and Bert Wines. At the Beloville camp things were pretty damp, though conditions were not as bad as they might have been had the tents been situated on lower ground. The small brook which comes down from the mountain near the Hellmann country home and flows across the first level of the camp grounds, was out of bounds and nearly up to the non-commissioned officers' quarters. The chlorinator and pump house at the edge of the creek were washed out though a considerable amount of water still remained in the 2,000 gallon storage tank from which water is piped to various parts of the grounds. The woodsmen and soldiers took the flooding of their underground refrigerator philosophical enough, though the condition will necessitate their subsisting on canned goods in true army style, for perhaps several days. While the large hospital ward tents, used as sleeping quarters by the 200 men at Camp No. 2, leaked considerably, conditions were not unbearable, as the tent floors of shipyard lumber are all raised several inches above ground while stone drains carry off the surface water from the immediate environs.

Two tourists who were tenting at the McKelvey camp along the east bank of the Esopus Creek, a few yards south of Camp No. 2, were very much out of luck as the storm progressed and the waters of the creek began to creep up around their camp. Failing to remove their car from the scene quickly enough, the tourists to their dismay say it completely engulfed by the flood and at last accounts the top was barely visible above the crest of the muddy water. The visitors then sought refuge in the large barn belonging to John and Mamie McKelvey, an old building said to have been used for stabling relay teams in the days of Captain David Maper's four-horse stage coach line between Kingston and Delhi. At Shokan, the Butterkill, which flows under Route 28 at the home of Frank Myers of Kingston and Shokan, was way out of bounds, spreading over the flat on the William Tueling farm and covering the mountain road to a depth of nearly a foot. The damage to Olive town roads probably will be extensive, aside from the possible loss of several bridges which at this writing are being put to a tremendous test of their strength by the swollen streams. As to trout fishing, the prospects for any more of this sport before the season closes appear extremely dubious, as it is thought that even in case the brooks do run down within the next few days, many of the trout will have been carried into the Esopus, and thence into the Ashokan reservoir where the larger deep-water fish will promptly take their toll of them.

Horse Show Big Attraction at County Fair, Which Closes Today

With promise of clearing weather Thursday afternoon there was increased attendance at the Ulster County Fair, being held this year in the new armory on North Manor avenue and a fairly good crowd gathered in the bleachers and about the improvised ring in the drill shed for the horse show at 2 o'clock.

Although greatly handicapped by lack of room, with consequent fear of injury to spectators, six classes were judged, Dr. E. C. Van Dusen of Athens being the judge. Because of the lack of space the competitive drill between four horse teams representing Troop G of Troy and the State Department of Correction at Wallkill prison was postponed until today, when the harness horse classes and draft horses were to be shown. Winners Thursday afternoon were:

Saddle Horses, 15.2 hands and over.

Won by Tailor Made, exhibited by Kenneth E. Archer. Second and third places to Steel Dust and Jack Horner, owned by Dr. Leo Palmer, superintendent of the Wallkill Medium Security Prison. Fourth place in this class was taken by Miss Emily G. Chambers.

Saddle Horses, under 15.2. Archer also captured first place in this class, his entry being King Kong. Dr. Palmer's Banda took second and third place went to an entry by John Matthews.

Saddle Ponies, 13 hands and under 14.2.

Won by Romona, ridden and exhibited by Miss Elizabeth G. Chambers.

Saddle Shetland Ponies.

Mrs. J. G. Holcombe's Benny, ridden by Master Johnny Morton, won first. Other winners, in order, were: Fair Maid, exhibited by Miss Emily G. Chambers; Gall, exhibited by Mrs. J. G. Holcombe and ridden by Master Lester Morton; Spotty, exhibited by Miss Jane Gildersleeve.

Saddle Pairs.

First place in this class went to Archer's King Kong and Dr. Palmer's Banda. Troop G of Troy took second, the police team of the State Department of Correction at Wallkill third and John Matthews fourth. Tailor Made, exhibited by K. E.

Archer, was awarded first as champion saddle horse of the show. Dr. Palmer's Banda was named reserve champion.

Plattskill Grange First.

The Little Theatre was again packed Thursday evening, when one-act plays were given by artists representing New Paltz, Highland, Milton and Homewick Granges. At the conclusion the judges selected the winners from among the seven Granges that gave plays during the fair. First place, carrying with it the title of Ulster county champions, went to Plattskill Grange. Lake Katrine was placed second and Homewick Grange of Spring Glen third.

The seven general Grange exhibits were judged Thursday and first place went to Plattskill Grange. Huguenot Grange of New Paltz was placed second, Highland third and Ulster Park fourth.

Some interesting specimens of work done by Home Bureau members are shown in their exhibit. A most creditable piece of work is the reproduction of a butterfly table, built and finished by Mrs. Sadie Snyder of Lomontville. A number of old chairs are shown, refinished and re-seated by members of the Home Bureau. A collection of toys shows what can be done with very simple tools and material. A large train, consisting of locomotive, tender and box car, was made out of cheese boxes, spoons and tin cans. There is a hobby horse, made of a sock, old glove and a broomstick, that has real class to it and many a youngster, even in this ultra sophisticated age, would be glad to own this thoroughbred.

This morning, with the first blue sky and sunshine since the fair opened, visitors began to gather and a good crowd was expected. The fair officially closes at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

There was a good deal of interest in the cattle judging this morning. Frank DuPont was busy getting the horseshoe pitching arena in shape for the contest that will decide the county championship this afternoon and a number of the contestants were already on hand warming up.

The fair today took the place of the annual Farm and Home Bureau picnic, which on occasions has attracted thousands of members of these organizations and their families.

NRA Reported Ready For Next Week's Drive, 1,500,000 to Take Part

Door-to-door Campaign Has Been Spread to Every County in the United States—Hugh Johnson Is Concentrating On The Coal Conference.

Washington, Aug. 25 (AP)—The NRA today reported "ready" all over the country for next week's push in the Blue Eagle re-employment campaign, meanwhile moving deliberately ahead to secure a coal industry accord, and fashioning new terms of fair practice for the retail trade.

Hugh Johnson, recovery boss, concentrated upon the coal conference at which factions too bitterly opposed in the past even to deal with one another, had been brought into cooperative consultation by necessity and the persuasions of President Roosevelt. Conclusion of an automobile code, though looked for soon, was being left in the background.

The division set up to run the Blue Eagle drive announced that organization for the door-to-door push to get businessmen one hundred percent under the Blue Eagle and to sign up consumers by the millions as pledged supporters, had been spread to every county in the United States. It was estimated that 1,500,000 men and women will take part next week.

Automobile industry spokesmen were expected to renew negotiations for preserving in some form their code declaration for open shop policies, despite the ban placed on such statements by Johnson.

There was no promise of immediate solution of the bituminous coal problems.

In Johnson's last talk with automobile spokesmen, they protested the ban on qualifications regarding labor unions in their code, and insisted that they be allowed to state that they would hire, promote, and fire union men without regard to union relations. They proposed to bring back a new formula after consultation with motor makers not represented on the committee.

Behind these big jobs, the NRA was digesting codes for all manner of small industries and trades. Today nearly 30 agreements were set for hearing, the bulk between now and September 1. The number of codes received ran around 1,000, and the NRA was busy reducing these to acceptable proportions, seeking to put all possible small groups into combinations so hearings could be held on all before the end of the year.

The mechanics of handling codes already had reached the point that some have been disposed of in less than two hours of hearing.

To do this, however, NRA, which a month ago had less than 200 on its payroll, now has an employment roster doubled and tripled, and its appointment division is still taking on people daily.

ALMOST COMPLETE CLEANUP OF TRAIN WRECK REPORTED.

Washington, Aug. 25 (AP)—Two wrecking crews, after a night of labor under floodlights, today reported an almost complete cleanup of the wreck of the crack Crescent Limited, derailed early yesterday over the rain-gorged Anacostia river with the loss of two lives.

The bridge on the Pennsylvania Railroad Lines which collapsed under the speedy Southern Railway train early yesterday was still out, however, and rail traffic from New York was routed around it.

Seren of the 13 men sent to Washington hospitals after the crash on the capital's outskirts had been released today, and the condition of only two of those remaining was considered serious. The two were Myer Blackman, 40, of Philadelphia, and Benjamin Johnson, 49, Washington, assistant train foreman.

Arrangements were made today for the burial of A. H. Bryde of Washington, the engineer, and J. H. Faye, of Perryville, Md., the fireman. Formal reports as to the cause of and responsibility for the wreck were still awaited from inspectors of the Interstate Commerce Commission. A report also was expected from railroad officials.

TOWER CRASHES, WATCHMAN IS CRITICALLY INJURED.

Dunkirk, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP)—Caught in his 25-foot tower as it was crashed and toppled to the ground by a derailed freight car, Louis H. Centner, 67, watchman at the New York Central Railroad crossing, was critically injured today.

Tales Of Heroism From Mountain Section; Recover Priest's Body

Says He Held Victim Father Healey Loses Life Trying to Reach Of Kidnapers Under Threats Of Death

R. G. Shannon Testified He Helped Guard Kidnaped Oil Millionaire, C. R. Urschel, Under Threat of Death.

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 25 (AP)—R. G. (Boss) Shannon, indicted with a dozen others for the kidnaping of Charles R. Urschel, testified helped guard the Oklahoma oil millionaire unwillingly under threat of death.

George (Machine Gun) Kelly, one of those indicted, and still a fugitive, was named by the 55-year-old Wisconsin (Texas) farmer as the one who threatened his life. Kelly is the husband of Shannon's wife's daughter, Catherine, by a previous marriage.

Shannon also testified Kelly and Albert Babes, held at Denver, brought Urschel to his remote farm house. Urschel was kidnaped from his Oklahoma City mansion July 22, and released nine days later after $200,000 ransom had been paid.

Shannon seeks to avoid being sent to Oklahoma City, along with his wife and son Armon, to stand trial for the abduction. Harvey Bailey, wanted for many crimes, including the Urschel abduction, has signed a waiver of extradition to Oklahoma for the trial. Bailey was captured at the Shannon farm August 12 at the same time the Shannons were taken into custody.

In a federal courtroom bristling with sub-machine guns for the habeas corpus hearing, Shannon declared he did not believe Bailey had anything to do with the Urschel kidnaping.

The elderly farmer denied he received any money for permitting Urschel to remain at his house and said that so far as he knew nothing was paid to his son.

J. B. Keenan, Assistant United States Attorney General in charge of kidnaping prosecution, asked Shannon:

"Did you receive a $1,500 check from Kelly?"

"No—got from Kelly," Shannon replied. "It was from Catherine—Kelly's wife."

"How long after Urschel's release?"

"I can't remember," Shannon replied.

Marooned People In Boat, Who Were Finally Saved by Kingston Fire Department—Thrilling Rescue of Mother and Two Children By Edward Ocker, Jr., 18 Years Old—Two Others Rescued By Central Hudson Employees.

The flood waters of the Esopus creek fortunately took but one life Thursday, that of Father James A. Healy, 31 years old, of 213 West 52nd street, New York, an assistant priest at Holy Trinity Church, 52nd street, New York. Father Healy gave his life in an attempt to rescue five persons who were marooned on a point of land at the rear of the Rustic Tavern near Phoenixia, when their overnight cabin was washed away. Several others narrowly escaped drowning in the rescue operations.

Father Healy's body was recovered later Thursday afternoon about 1,000 feet from the place where he went into the stream. For the past month he had been attached to Camp Wapanachki at Mt. Tremper, a boys' camp. Arthur Webb of Phoenixia, who was with Father Healy on the pontoon when it capsized, was rescued from the raging torrent by Frank Clapp of White Plains, who jumped in and hauled Webb to shore after the craft capsized. Both Webb and Clapp came near losing their lives in the creek. Clapp and Webb were hauled ashore by a rope which rescuers threw to them and which had been made fast to a tree while one man made his way to shore. The second man then tied the rope about himself and was hauled ashore.

It was presumed that Father Healy struck some submerged object in the water when he was thrown from the pontoon with Webb. His body disappeared from view and it was several hours later that it was recovered by Eugene Carle of Albany avenue, an employee of the county highway department, who with Ralph Davis of Phoenixia was searching after the water had subsided. The body was located by Carle about 1,000 feet from shore, lodged against trees and brush. It was taken ashore and Sergeant James Cunningham of the state troopers notified Coroner W. N. Conner of this city, who with his assistant, Arthur Keator, went to the scene. The body was moved to the camp and from there brought to this city by Coroner Conner and turned over to Undertaker James Murphy, who in turn turned the body over to a New York undertaker.

In order to get to the scene Coroner Conner went to Bearville and over through Wittenberg and down over the hill to Mt. Tremper. The return trip was made through Willow and over Byrnes mountain to Woodstock due to a wash-out on the Shady road near Bearville.

Father Healy had been a priest for three years. Coroner Conner's verdict was accidental death by drowning in flood waters of the Esopus creek while a member of a rescue party.

Rescue Finally Effectuated.

After the tragic death of Father Healy in an attempt to rescue two women and three children from their dangerous position their rescue was finally effected shortly after 4 o'clock by means of fire equipment sent to the scene from this city under direction of Chief Joseph Murphy.

Those rescued were Mrs. Frederick Brendt and her son, Frederick, Jr., eight, and Mrs. James Jordan and daughters, Jean, ten, and Josephine, nine, all of South Orange Park, N. Y. The party had arrived at the camp the previous night and had taken lodging in the cabins along the creek. They were awakened by the water but were unable to make their way to safety due to the deep water which surrounded their cabin. The creek had already spread out surrounding the land on which they were located. As the rain continued the land became submerged and during the height of the storm the land was completely flooded and they retained their position only by hanging on to trees and brush. After hours in that position the rain ceased and the water gradually dropped and their rescue was made.

When taken ashore they were exceedingly grateful to the persons who had worked throughout the day to save them.

Word of their plight was sent to the sheriff's office about 3 o'clock in the morning and Deputy Vredenburg went to the scene. State Troopers also responded to a call for help and Sheriff Saxe notified the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation. That company sent men and equipment to the scene and through-out the day cooperated in every possible way with the rescue crew. Efforts to get a line to the stranded people were unsuccessful. Boats were taken up by the Central Hudson men but they were of little use in the raging current which was filled with wreckage coming down stream.

Pontoons were sent up but they also failed to negotiate the stream and finally the Central Hudson rushed an aerial gun up from Poughkeepsie to man it. Efforts to use the gun failed when the lines which were shot to the people fouled in trees or broke. During the time repeated efforts were made by volunteers to get a boat through. Several citizens made the attempt and men from the Central Hudson also attempted to get through. Father Healy lost his life in an effort to cross the raging stream.

Construct Bridge of Ladders.

Assistance was asked from the local fire department and Chief Murphy went up with the aerial ladder and several firemen.

After risking their lives it was with this apparatus that rescue was finally made and all credit possible is due the men who manned the equipment on the hazardous trip to the scene and later constructed a frail bridge of ladders and brought the five persons to safety.

After plowing through water radiator deep for a quarter of a mile over unseen highways the apparatus reached the scene. The big aerial ladder was run up and dropped into a tree in the water. Volunteers then made their way over the ladder to the tree and up to the top of the tree where ropes were made fast. Ladders were then attached to the rope and run out over the water from the end of the aerial ladder.

Gradually the bridge was extended as ladder after ladder was run out and guyed by ropes to the tree top. It was over this bridge of ladders that Fireman Edward Noble finally was able to get a line to the stranded people. When close to the women Noble volunteered to drop from the bridge with a line which was made fast and they were brought one by one over to the tree and down the ladder to safety. The children were brought over first and the women came last. One of the little girls came ashore with a pet dog in her arms. It was one of the men from the Central Hudson company who made his way over the ladder and up to the top of the tree to attach a rope and start the shaking bridge from tree to tree.

In the party of firemen who went up with Chief Murphy were Firemen DeWitt, Hutton, Malnes, McElrath and others, some of the men being off duty at the time but volunteering to make the trip.

In addition to Deputy Sheriff Clayton Vredenburg who rushed to the scene from the sheriff's office several deputy sheriffs were on the job giving assistance.

Trooper Mahoney from Phoenixia was on the job all night and throughout the day and Sergeant Cunningham also went to the scene when notified of the condition taking with him Troopers Coons, Fleming and Boelinger. Throughout the day the Troopers assisted in the rescue work.

Sheriff Saxe Expresses Thanks.

Sheriff Saxe is desirous of expressing his appreciation and thanks to the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation for the 100 per cent cooperation with which they worked. Several crews were on the job together with several firemen and a number of the company trucks which carried equipment to the scene. Again today Deputy Sheriff Vredenburg went to the scene to search for any lost equipment which might be salvaged and returned to the owners. To the local fire department and the Poughkeepsie firemen Sheriff Saxe has also extended his thanks for their work.

While the rescue operations were going on at Rustic Tavern two women were being rescued from a similar plight at Three Star Camp at Mt. Tremper. There Ruth Pauline Rapp and Asenath Johnson of 270 Lawrence avenue, Long Island city, were brought to safety after they had been surrounded by the rushing water.

Deputy Sheriff Vredenburg on his way up stopped at this point to give aid before continuing on to the Rustic Tavern a mile further up the road.

Two Women Rescued.

The two women were marooned on a high spot which was rapidly disappearing beneath their feet. From a telephone pole along the road was a long guy wire running down to the creek where it was anchored. E. G. Rider, an employee of the Central Hudson Company, went up the pole and attached a small snatch block to the guy wire. Testing the strength of the wire he cautiously made his way down the wire toward the women.

47 Known Dead From Storm As Floods Still Threaten

William Lamb Held For the Grand Jury

Young Man Accused of Stealing Ice Truck of Kingston Ice Service Apprehended at Detroit and Brought Back to Kingston—Other Police Cases.

William Lamb, 22, of Detroit, Mich., faced Judge Culliton in police court today on a charge of grand larceny in the theft of a Ford delivery truck of the Kingston Ice Service on Albany avenue. The youth, who had been apprehended in Detroit, and brought back to Kingston last night by Deputy Sheriff Abram Moynaux, waved examination and was held to await the action of the next grand jury on a charge of grand larceny. The truck was valued at $450.

From the story gathered by the police the young man had been employed by the Kingston Ice Service and several weeks ago was sent out to deliver a truckload of ice. He delivered the ice and collected the cash for it and then both he and the truck disappeared.

Chief of Police Wood learned that the youth while in Kingston had stated his home was in Detroit and the chief got in touch with the Detroit police which resulted in the youth being picked up and held there until he was turned over to Deputy Sheriff Moynaux. The ice truck was found in a garage in Chicago.

"Not Guilty" Said Cyril.

Cyril Burke, 35, of New York city, arrested on Field Court last night on a charge of public intoxication by Special Officer Taylor, was arraigned and when the charge was read to him by Judge Culliton he said that he "was not acquainted with the gentleman who arrested him."

"Aside from that," replied the judge, "were you intoxicated?"

Burke thought a second and then observed: "You'll observe that I am not charged with drunkenness."

"No, public intoxication," replied the court gravely.

"Well I plead not guilty to both charges," replied Burke.

"Adjourned to Monday morning and bail fixed at $10," said Judge Culliton.

Card Party September 12.

There will be a card party on Tuesday afternoon, September 12, at 2 o'clock, in Mechanics Hall, 14 Henry street, under the supervision of Mrs. Bertha Williams and Mrs. Eva McCall.

(By The Associated Press.)

Floods still imperiled parts of the east today as it counted at least 47 dead in the path of a runaway hurricane that raged up from the tropics and whistled away into the St. Lawrence valley.

A smashed dam and rising waters marooned 190 persons, mostly boys and girls, at Camp Achvach, Godfrey, N. Y. Calls for assistance sent a rescue squad from the Port Jervis fire department to the scene.

At dawn today the Port Jervis police said that the waters of the Neversink river, which surrounded the camp, were receding. There was now no danger, they said, that a second dam which had been reported menaced would give way.

In Pennsylvania, one of the last states to feel the fury of the wind and rain, hundreds of families fled their homes.

Schools and hospitals were thrown open to care for refugees at York, Pa. Estimates said 2,500 persons left their houses in and around Reading alone. Property damage probably never will be known accurately. Some published estimates said $10,000,000.

The storm, which caused a train wreck, nearly wrecked a liner, and smashed innumerable small craft, left the coastal steamship City of Norfolk stuck in the mud of Pocomoke Sound, in Chesapeake Bay. The steamer, lost to the world for 24 hours, reported all her 30 passengers safe.

The nation's capital kept a close watch on the swollen Potomac. New York, which escaped the hurricane's full force, lighted up the Statue of Liberty's torch, doused by the storm, and picked up the debris of broken windows, fallen trees and shattered signboards.

Investigators of the wreck of the Crescent Limited, New York-New Orleans freight which hurtled from a flood-weakened bridge, said the casualty list would have been larger if the accident had not occurred in the daytime. Two trainmen died.

Passengers told how travelers aboard the Eastern Steamship liner Madison knelt in prayer while the damaged ship fought the hurricane. Two lives were lost before the Madison, badly battered, made port at Norfolk.

Falls 60 Feet From Window.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP)—Paul Boyle, 19, a caddy at Loon Lake House, is in a hospital today after a fall of 50 feet from the window of his room. He was believed to have been walking in his sleep. Other employees found him, badly injured, on the ground under his window.

Signs Weavers' Code.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt today signed the working code for the rayon weavers, establishing hours and wages in line with the cotton textile agreement.

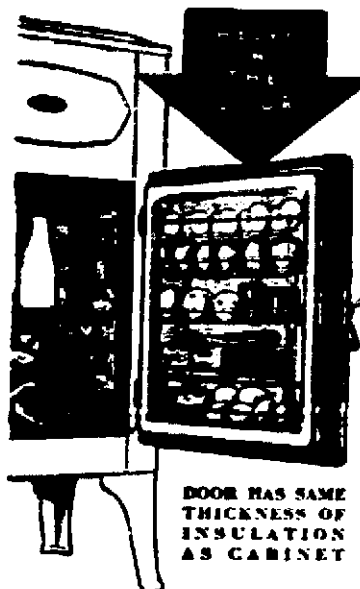

Police Searching For Girl.

Gloversville, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP)—State police have been asked to search for Dorothy Kinney, 12, who left her aunt's home at 7:30 a. m. yesterday, dressed in her best clothes. She said she was going to set a lantern belonging to her uncle, Elmer Kinney, from friends a mile away. She left her umbrella at their house, did not ask for the lantern, and was not seen again by her relatives. Her parents were said to live in Greene county.

Russians Plan Stratospheric Attempt Soon

Leningrad, (AP)—Soviet aviation's first venture into the stratosphere is scheduled to be made within the next few weeks in a specially constructed balloon designed for an ascent of from six to 15 miles.

Three—possibly four—of the country's leading aerologists intend to set out on a voyage into the upper reaches of the atmosphere before the summer ends on what is contemplated as the first of a series of such flights for scientific observation.

To Study Cosmic Rays.

Their primary purpose is to study the cosmic rays, electro-magnetic phenomena and the physiological influence of great heights on human beings. But they also hope to better the record of Prof. Auguste Piccard, who on his second ascent reached a height of more than 53,000 feet. The first test flight of the balloon, constructed in the Air Institute's factories here along the general lines of Piccard's craft, was pronounced satisfactory by the constructor, M. Vassenko and B. Fedoseenko, the chief pilot, although it was allowed to climb only 2,100 meters during its almost 14 hours in the air. It was brought down safely, some 30 miles from Leningrad, its starting point.

Molchanov Likely Commander.

Both Vassenko and Fedoseenko probably will make the first flight. Prof. D. Molchanov, director of the Institute and organizer of the ascent, likely will be in command. Whether the flight will be started from Leningrad or from Moscow will depend on weather conditions.

The balloon, designed by Engineer I. Chertovsky, was more than a year in construction and only Soviet materials and equipment were used. The envelope is made of a special rubberized fabric to which a paint compound has been applied to make it impervious to the sun's heat. It has a capacity of 20,000 cubic meters of hydrogen gas.

Basket Type Suspension.

The cabin is constructed of non-magnetic, rustless steel and can accommodate four men for a maximum of 12 hours. It is slung in what resembles a basket, the bottom of which is fitted with a shock-absorbing device to soften the impact of landing. Port holes fitted with non-sweating and non-freezing glass—four around the sides, one in the top and one in the floor—provide the means of observation and photography.

The crew will receive necessary air from a liquid oxygen apparatus within the sealed cabin, which also will have a powerful short-wave radio transmission and receiving set.

Hitler Shuttles By Air Over Reich Establishing New Speed Records

Germany's Flying Chancellor

Adolf Hitler has taken to the air in order to meet his many engagements in different German cities. He is shown alighting at Munich, a "brown shirt" guard of honor and Nazi party officials greeting him.

Munich, Germany (AP)—Spending much time in a fast private airplane, Adolf Hitler has been flying about Germany of late establishing speed records in his effort to keep engagements at widely distant cities.

His air-mindedness has brought him the popular nickname of "the flying chancellor."

Outspeeds Regular Planes.

Hitler being both head of the government and leader of the national Socialist party, his duties demand his presence alternately on the Wilhelmstrasse in Berlin and at the "Brown House," national headquarters of the Nazis in this city.

Using a plane which the Luftwaffe placed at his disposal, together with a crack pilot, the chancellor makes this Bavarian capital almost a suburb of Berlin. His fast machine flies the 450 miles regularly in two hours. Ordinary passenger planes take three hours for the trip.

Only recently the "flying chancellor" established something of a record. Starting from Bayreuth at 8 a. m. Hitler flew to Munich for the reception of a group of 450 young Italian Fascists.

Tail Wind Record Made.

At noon Hitler left for Berlin to attend a funeral, after which he mounted his plane again which took him back to Bayreuth where he attended the Wagner music festival. Some time ago Hitler's private pilot, Captain Hansi Baur, performed another stunt. Flying the chancellor from Munich to Berlin, Baur managed the stretch in a little over one hour, helped by favorable tail winds, decorated him with the order of Captain Baur is an experienced aviator who has done far over one million "air kilometers" in the regular passenger service. For his achievements in the Berlin-Rome service across the Alps, Mussolini decorated him with the order of "Corona d'Italia" with the degree of aviator who has done far over one

MANY JAPANESE DRAWN TO BRAZIL FOR COLONIZATION

Rio De Janeiro (AP)—Almost every Japanese ship this year brings several hundred Nipponese immigrants, all of them with a rudimentary knowledge of Portuguese and Brazilian customs.

The Japanese colonization society, which holds a contract to bring a total of 25,000 Japanese settlers this year, gives the immigrants a fortnight's schooling before they sail for Brazil. During the ocean trip, classes are held aboard ship.

As many as 1,200 come at a time, most of the immigrants disembarking in Santos, for settlement in the interior of Sao Paulo. The Japanese engage successfully in coffee growing, cotton and rice raising and tea planting. The tea industry is new, but several plantations are about to enter the production stage.

WIFE'S RIGHT TO LOAF OK'D BY VIENNA COURT

Vienna (AP)—Spending many hours daily in a cafe is the inalienable right of all Viennese, a business man here learned when he sued his wife for divorce.

He charged that she whiled away most of her afternoons and many evenings "in the coffee house instead of her own home."

The court agreed with the wife that in Vienna the cafe is the citizen's club and his wife's club too.

Australia Counts Its Millions. Canberra (AP)—Australia's population totals 6,619,000, says a preliminary report of the recent census.

New South Wales has 2,599,000. Victoria 1,818,000. Queensland 943,000. South Australia 581,000. West Australia 438,000. Tasmania 227,000. the federal district 9,000 and the northern territory 4,000.

Blouse of Cotton-Crochet the Rage

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WOULDN'T you just love to own one of several of those smart, cool, attractive and very practical mercerized-cotton hand-crochet blouses which high-class specialty shops are showing this season, to wear with the now-so-voguish linen (particularly black, linen) or pique suits? Well, why not be the happy possessor of just such? They are so easy to make and inexpensive (when home crocheted) and are they good-looking!

As to hand-crochet, it's the rage just now. Chic Parisiennes simply dote on it, wearing blouses of crochet with their best-looking suits, and gloves, the cunningest affairs you ever saw, with flare cuffs, the whole thing done in a dainty lacy stitch. Belts, too, and pocketbooks and hats all of crochet, while their frocks are trimmed with delightful crochet insets and entire yokes and edgings and such.

The group of clever blouses in the picture cannot but prove an inspiration to those who feel the urge to crochet. The vastly important thing about using mercerized cotton for these blouses is that it washes so perfectly no matter how colorful it be.

Of course you are going to have a hard time deciding which of the blouses pictured to copy. We think the model on the standing figure is particularly good-looking. It's "darling" when made in a pastel shade, to match the skirt, although it is just as effective in contrast—pale blue cotton-crochet blouse with a pink pique or flannel skirt, or, if you like monotones, a pink-crochet blouse topping a pink linen skirt, a matching linen swaggar coat completing this most intriguing three-piece. Oh, there is no end to the staging of effects which can be done with these hand-crochet blouses. It is the handsome shell stitch which makes the aforementioned blouse outstanding, also the tricky picot (crochet) finishing at the neckline.

The eye-satisfying little sweater with its pert cap sleeves on the seated figure is crocheted in blue and white cotton, intermingled so as to give it a sort of tweedy effect.

The fashionable high neck of the striped-yoke blouse shown to the right below, also its wee puff sleeves, make this model a smart item in anyone's wardrobe. The buttons at the belt are a happy thought, avoids stretching when you slip the blouse over the head.

The young woman who's head and shoulders above the group are pictured, is very much in crochet attire. Her blouse is a perfectly stunning affair crocheted in the popular flat stitch, bright orange with white. The white sports hat crocheted of mercerized cotton has the soft, easily-draped brim which is becoming to all types of faces. A band of mesh stitch suggests new height for the crown.

WHAT LIQUOR-INTERESTS' LICENSES WILL COST

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP).—Here's what liquor manufacturers and distributors will have to pay in licenses and taxes under the bills passed by the special session of the New York legislature if the 15th Amendment is repealed before the January session of the legislature:

Tax on liquor—$1 a gallon; still wines—15 cents a gallon; "sparkling" wines—40 cents.

Distillers' licenses—$15,000 a year; wine manufacturers—$500;

liquor wholesalers—$4,500; wine wholesalers—$500.

Liquor retailers—In New York city, $1,500 where liquor is consumed on premises, $1,200 where it is consumed off the premises; in cities of less than 1,000,000 but more than 100,000, $1,200 on the premises and $1,000 off the premises; in cities of less than 100,000, $750 on the premises and $500 off the premises; vessels, $1,000 a year; dining cars, $50 a car.

Wine retailers—License fees same as those now paid by retailers of beer.

The HIDDEN DOOR

BY FRANK L. PACKARD

 IN THE DARK

AND so it had been decided that Colm would have full support and help of Butch Connal's gang—but that they would work apart.

Therefore it was Papa Goyette who had supplied Charlie Lunn with a "reputation"—not as that of a crook of high degree, but as one of those in whose past the police would take an abiding interest if certain infor-

It was also Papa Goyette who had secured his entrance into this rooming house which was a hangout of well-dressed gentry outside the law.

Butch Connal and his mob had worked unobtrusively—and Butch, when he communicated by telephone was known as Martel. And he, Colm, had not spared himself. Days and nights of it! His knowledge of the dens and dives that, not so long ago, he had frequented in search of other material had stood him in good stead so far as gaining admission there-unto was concerned. He had haun-

A stray word, a whisper, a confidence exchanged behind the unhallowed portals of the underworld where daylight never entered—that was what he had sought and hoped for. But he had been unwarded.
 The Wine Press was as much of a mystery as ever. Never had he heard so much as a mention of the Mask.

Reddy's letter was still, figuratively speaking, in his pocket. He did not even know whether Lazzare had lived or died. Butch Connal had uncovered nothing. There had been no trace of Lazzare or any of Lazzare's companions since the night of Dollaire's attack upon the club at the Cascade River.

Well, there was probably a very good reason for that. They were keeping under cover. Before he had left Boston the newspapers had had the story. The caption of one in particular, set in lurid type and blazoned across the front page, floated again before his mind's eye:

INTERNATIONAL
COUNTERFEITING
PLANT UNCOVERED

It was the first inkling he had had of the actual nature of the Mask's "interests" on the north shore. He could not say that he had been startled. What had interested him far more was the "stories" that the papers had run day by day. They had supplied some details, of course; but he had not heretofore known; but they had not furnished him with anything concrete in the way of a clue and certainly had not blazed any trail for him to follow. Perhaps, though, he might have overlooked something. He placed the stories together again in his mind.

A FEW days after he had left on the Bonaventure, a fisherman from Cap à l'Orage, passing the mouth of the Cascade River, had noticed that the club had been burned down. The fisherman had landed, discovered the wreckage of the power plant and the bodies of two murdered men—one of whom he knew to be Kenniston. He had returned post-haste to Cap à l'Orage and had made his report. A crossing was at once made to Gaspé coast and the wires had begun to hum.

In the twinkling of an eye Cap à l'Orage had emerged from obscurity into the fierce glare of newspaper publicity! Well, as had been so often said, it was an ill wind that blew nobody good. Madame Frézier's Hotel de Canada must have done a thriving business! By planes, by boats from the Gaspé shore, police and reporters had flocked to the scene—and Cap à l'Orage had automatically become their headquarters.

Below the ground level of the wrecked power house had been

TRAFFIC LIMITS ROADSIDE STAND MARKET PROFITS.

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Buyers usually patronize farmers' roadside markets to get strictly fresh and high quality produce and to save money as compared to retail prices in the city, according to M. C. Bond, of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Many persons, he says, are willing to pay a premium for quality; but the policy of most successful roadside-market proprietors is to sell produce of equal freshness and quality, slightly below the retail price. Consumers can thus afford to drive out to the market where prices are maintained on that basis.

Quality and freshness, and an honest pack give customers the greatest incentive to return to a market;
 and it is the repeat customer, he says, who makes a market profitable.

The TOREADOR SONG from the opera CARMEN by BIZET.

CARMEN is the story of a Spanish coquette who flirts with a bullfighter and thus drives her wailing lover, Don Jose, to despair. The latter finally murders her rather than see her in the arms of the toreador.

Poorest received at its first performance in 1875, the opera has since become one of the half-dozen most popular pieces of the lyric stage.

The "Toreador Song," a splendid piece of colorful music, comes at the beginning of the second act of the romantic and picturesque drama. In it the bull-fighter thanks the assembled crowd for its warm greeting. A high spot in the opera, it has also become a favorite air on the concert platform.

Georges Bizet, its composer, was a child prodigy, who for ten years carried off nearly all the prizes at the Paris Conservatory of Music. At 22 he was a finished composer, but the crises occurred at his efforts. He died a few months after he wrote "Carmen," firmly convinced that he had created a masterpiece, an opinion in which musicians of all tastes and schools concur today.

Federal Reserve Tries for New Credit

Washington, Aug. 25 (AP).—The Federal Reserve system last week tried to make $35,000,000 in new credit available to American business but was thwarted today by Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) that without additional action "there is inevitable disaster ahead."

For months the 12 Federal Reserve Banks have limited their operations to purchasing from Commercial Banks, government securities. The theory is that Federal Reserve currency or credit thus will replace the government securities in bank vaults, and since the currency and credit bring in no interest while idle, they will be loaned.

Last week, the 12 Central Banks purchased $35,000,000 worth of securities: $21,465,000 in treasury notes, $12,465,000 in certificates and bills, and $1,070,000 in bonds. The week before, the purchases totaled only $11,000,000.

Before the statement was issued on last week's operations Thomas wrote Governor Eugene R. Black, of the Federal Reserve Board, that there must be "courageous" action.

"Along those which the Federal Reserve has heretofore opposed." "I have sponsored since 1921 bills for issuance of treasury notes to bring the urgently needed relief to our people," Thomas wrote. "However, I was defeated in these efforts by the Federal Reserve, who were directed by large Wall Street financiers."

"Under normal conditions, I would not propose direct issuance of non-interest-bearing treasury notes. However, when it is necessary to give the nation a new standard of living, it is necessary to give the nation a new standard of living."

PENNEY'S

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

The star of the city in our case, I mean, is the "thousand fountain." Castles, towers, ramparts, and the like, are scattered just below the mighty Niagara, but the one that keeps them from being the valley. While jets above toward the sky, the spray, resembling steam, makes them look like huge, steady flowing geysers. The rays of the sun produce not one but many rainbows while the roar of the waters striving for freedom only to be caught and confined again, is rather rather than inspiring as is the din of a city. Taking it all in all, it's a grand show for those who like it and it's absolutely free. Every time I've been up there, a whole caravan of automobiles has been parked around the iron fence.

It takes a lot of water to slake the thirst of New York, keep it clean and keep the boilers going. The average consumption is 875,000,000 gallons a day and on hot days the consumption runs well over the billion mark. So there are miles and miles of artificial lakes shaded by city-planted forests of evergreens. There are fish in the lakes but it takes a special permit to attempt to catch them as the water supply is protected. The word "attempt" is used advisedly. While big fish may be seen plainly in the clear, still waters, they don't seem to be much interested in bait or lures. Once in a while some lucky angler hauls out a regular bass Goliath, but that doesn't happen often. Still there are many willing to try for such a prize.

New York's water rates have not been changed in 75 years. It costs the city about $12 to pump and send a million gallons to town, some of it traveling fully a hundred miles and in return, the city receives roughly $133. Seemingly, that is a fat profit. But each year the city goes in the red about $3,000,000 on its water supply. There is an investment of $332,000,000 and the interest charges are heavy. Business pays for water at metered rates, but the household supply is furnished on flat rates based on frontage, outlets, etc. Attempts to install meters universally have been frustrated by organized opposition.

Got a chuckle out of a story about Hugh Herndon, Jr., the aviator now employed by City Service. On a flight from Jacksonville, he had as passengers, W. Alton Jones, chairman of the board, Mrs. Jones and Rex Cole. When a landing was made, Mrs. Jones, who had been very much impressed with the flight over Jackson Bay, asked Herndon what was the longest stretch of water over which he had flown. "Four thousand, four hundred miles," replied the aviator. "Clyde Pangborn, flew from the state of Washington two

A waterfront derelict, ragged, shoeless and with his feet bleeding, wandered into a front street coffee brokerage house. One of the brokers, pitying him, took him out and bought him a new pair of sneakers. A few hours later, on West street, the broker encountered the one he had assisted. Not recognizing his patron, the derelict made an appeal for aid, during which the broker kept looking at the new shoes. "They don't mean nothing," explained the derelict. "Some old sea captain bought 'em for me. He must of thought I owned a yacht."

Restaurant owners in the bright light sector are complaining that beer has not increased their receipts to the point anticipated. They are selling much beer but they are also selling less coffee, tea and other beverages. Also, customers linger at the tables much longer than they did before, B.L. was legal. Only the return of cocktails, the restaurant men aver, will bring back prosperity to their business.

Elkhart, Ind.—A record for economical house building is claimed here by Rev. H. J. Stahl, who erected a six-room house at a total cost of less than $1,000. The labor cost was only $18. Rev. Mr. Stahl obtained his lumber from a wrecked house.

Dog Hitch-Hiked

Back to His Master

Boise, Idaho.—It's a wise dog that knows enough to hitch-hike, and C. E. Christensen owns such a dog. A group of picknickers parked their cars alongside a road in a canyon near Boise. When they were ready to leave, the driver noticed a dog on the running board. Orders to "scram" were answered only by a wag of a tail and a pointed nose to the west. So the autists drove on.

About fourteen miles along the road, the picknickers passed a camp, where they heard commands to stop. "What are you doing with my dog?" asked Christensen of the tourists. "Giving him a ride," came the answer. "He asked for it several miles down the road." The dog jumped from the car, wagged its tail, and the picknickers continued on their way.

Wilde Vehicle At Elverhøj Theatre

"The Importance of Being Earnest" sounds like a bit of advice to those who would be successful, but to the car Wilde in a play he wrote under that title, the importance was in having a name "Ernest" that the affections of two ladies might be attracted. The University Players at the Elverhøj Theatre near Milton are playing that vehicle this week, and have successfully coped with the wit, wisdom and by-play of words that Author Wilde concocted to amuse an audience.

While each of the actors took his part in a commendable manner, the two outstanding characters were "Miss Prism" played by Lucette Parker and "The Rev. Canon Chasuble" by Ralph Radcliffe. Miss Parker as the governess for Cecily Cardew brought a number of good laughs, and Mr. Radcliffe as the country curate convulsed his audience on every appearance.

The tale is likable, the conversation sparkling, and the whole is topped off with numerous clever situations that are sure to amuse. For those who like actors in the flesh a trip to the Elverhøj Theatre is sure to be satisfying.

The cast is as follows:

Algeron Moncrieff.....A. Grippen-Cunningham
Lane.....David H. Porterfield
John Worthing.....Peter G. Meek
Lady Bracknell.....Ruth Molyneux
Hon. Gwendolen Fairfax.....Frances Armstrong
Miss Prism.....Lucette Parker

WHY

Ships That Sink in Ocean Go All Way to Bottom

Despite the notion that a ship which goes down at sea does not sink all the way to the bottom, but remains suspended in the water because of the increased pressure and density at great depths, it does sink all the way to the bottom.

Pressure in itself does not enter into the problem, because the pressure of a fluid is exerted equally from all directions. Increased density, which is due chiefly to the greater pressure, is not an important factor in relation to this question, because water, like other fluids, is nearly incompressible, and the water at the bottom of the ocean in the deepest places weighs only about 5 per cent more than an equal volume of water at the surface.

Here is the law of floating and sinking bodies: If a body weighs more than its equal volume of water at any depth, it will sink and continue to sink until it reaches the bottom; if it weighs less, it will float on the surface; and if it weighs the same, it will stay wherever placed. In other words, an object sinks in water if its average density, including entrapped air, is greater than the density of the water to which it is immersed.

The weight of fresh water is about 62.4 pounds a cubic foot. Therefore, since, according to the principle of Archimedes, the lifting effect on a submerged body is equal to the weight of the displaced liquid, any object weighing more than 62.4 pounds a cubic foot will sink in fresh water.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Why of the First Joke

Found in Humor History

It is impossible to say with any degree of certainty who started the first practical joke. Doctor L'Estrange in his history of English humor says in his chapter on ancient humor that the pleasure found in hostile laughter soon led to practical jokes. They were anciently very common and formed the first link between humor and the ludicrous.

The first character in the records of antiquity that seems to have had anything quaint or droll about it is that of Samson. He was fond of making very sanguinary "sport for the Philistines." It is said that "he caught 300 foxes, and took fire-brands, and turned tail to tail, and put a fire-brand in the midst between two tails, and when he had set the brands on fire, he let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines, and burnt up both the shocks and also the standing corn of the Philistines, with the vineyards and olive." On another occasion he allowed himself to be bound with cords, and thus apparently delivered powerless into the hands of his enemies. He then broke his bonds "like flax that was burnt with fire," and taking the jaw bone of an ass slew 1,000 men with it.

Why Silk Worm Keeps Secrets

The silk worm has been studied for centuries and man has succeeded in imitating its product, but at the same time there are many things about the silk worm's habits and product which man does not understand. One of the unanswered questions is, why is the fiber spun with a triangular section? There might be an explanation here in terms of instinct, but presumably the silkworm does not care unduly for appearance. Possibly it is because there is a higher ratio of drying surface to area for a triangular section than one that is circular but if so, why doesn't she go the whole distance and make a fluted affair or ribbon? Why does she make two fibers and cement them together?

Why Finns Are Sturdy

First under Sweden and then under Russia, the Finns have had a rough passage ever since the middle ages, while the geographical position of their country made it for centuries a buffer state and the cockpit of northern Europe. Consequently, Finland has produced a virile race with staunch qualities and well-defined characteristics, which are the direct result of the difficult conditions imposed on the people from the Fifteenth to the Twentieth century.

Why Name "Mazda" Was Used

The name for incandescent lamps made by the Edison company was not adopted by the great inventor, but by officials in the sales department of his organization after receiving many suggestions for a trade name that could be registered as a trade-mark—common English words being barred from registration. "Mazda" was the suggestion of the president of the American Telephone company. Ahura Mazda was the light-giving god of the ancient Zoroastrian religion.

Why Lines Painted on Highways

Black lines such as are painted on curves and hills on some highways are to indicate to the driver that from the start of the line to the end he is in such a position that there is a "blind spot" ahead, around the curve or over the hill, where an oncoming car could not be seen by him. When he reaches the end of such a line he knows he can see far enough ahead to see any oncoming car.

Why Stockmarkets Shrink

Stockmarkets of steamships sinking backwards originated in the theory that there was less likelihood of air pressure from the top of the stock and consequently elimination of draft, but marine engineers now find that vertical stocks are just as efficient.

Schoolward Turn The Child Laborers; It's A Task To Teach 2,000,000 More

How well equipped is the nation's school system to teach the new people considered certain to come as a result of the NRA's elimination of child labor from many industries? This is the first of three articles dealing with the question.

(By ALEXANDER S. GEORGE)

Washington, D.C.—The nation's school system, already crippled by lack of funds and facilities to care for normal educational needs, faces an extra burden this fall.

Thousands of children, released from the wage earners' ranks by elimination of child labor under the various industrial codes, will be seeking their places in schools where classes have been overcrowded and where educational services have been eliminated or drastically curtailed.

Shorter Sessions Likely

Officials of the National Education Association predict that owing to the shortage of funds and to widespread retrenchment, the average school year of 1933-1934 will be shortened two months, a curtailment double that of the preceding year.

Dr. William G. Carr, assistant director of the research division of the association, says that in the last school year more than 250,000 children were allowed to attend school only on a part-time basis and an additional 150,000 were housed in portable shacks.

Last Year's Schooling Inadequate

The records indicate, he says, that an exceedingly inadequate and brief educational opportunity, and in some cases no education at all, was offered last year to about 500,000 American boys and girls.

The number of children who will be released from child labor to return to school under the industrial codes cannot be determined definitely, educators say. Dr. Carr has esti-

With adoption of NRA codes child labor is passing more and more out of the industrial picture, while hundreds of thousands of young people thus released turn toward the country's schools, already heavily burdened. It is estimated that there are about 2,000,000 children under 17 employed in American industries. Educators are considering the prospect that school enrollments might be increased by that number.

ated that roughly 2,100,000, out of 31,000,000 children from 5 to 17 years of age, are employed.

What would normally happen if he says, in the construction of some 2,000,000 young Americans were taken out of factories, mills and mines and from behind store counters and placed in school?

New Teachers, Buildings Needed

Dr. Carr says that in addition to the opening up of their jobs to unemployed adults, at least 80,000 additional teachers and 30,000 new school employees of other types would be required adequately to instruct this new army in the schools. Hundreds of new school buildings would be needed.

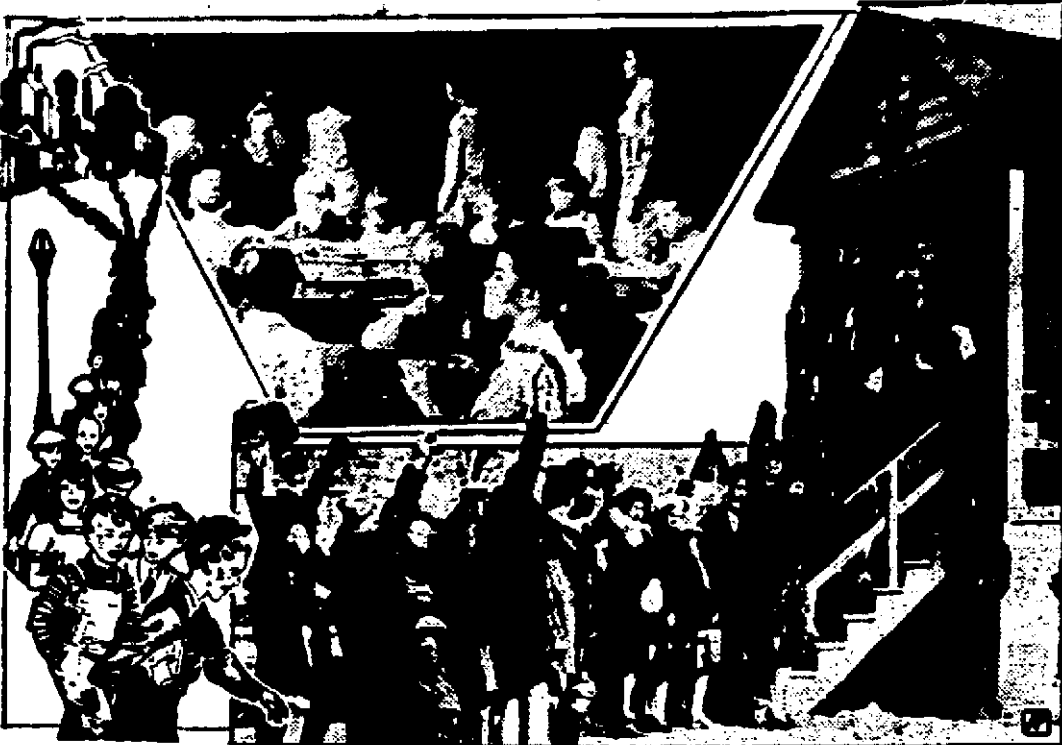

Yet, owing to the lack of funds and to drastic economies in school expenditures, there has been delay, he says, in the construction of some 4,000 needed rural schoolhouses while more than 18,000 rural school districts are not making the necessary minor repairs to keep their buildings and equipment from deterioration.

Enrollments Rising

He points out that while the supply of educational opportunity is diminishing, the demand continues to increase. Each year there have been approximately 200,000 more children enrolled in the public schools than the year previous.

Meanwhile, there has been a decreasing number of teachers, which combined with the increasing number of pupils means a higher pupil-teacher ratio and in most schools an increased size of class. There was a general tendency, however, to increase class size in city school systems before the depression.

With the prospect of a greatly increased enrollment and a further retrenchment in expenditures, educators are apprehensive that the school crisis this year will be even more acute than it was last year when teachers in several states worked without pay and thousands of schools were closed months before the expiration of their regular terms.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Beauty knows no social position nor geography, and the "golden girl" girls are here to prove it again.
 From villages and cities, from schools and offices, from beauty contests and from advertisements have come the beauties, blondes, brunettes, redheads, who will grace Eddie Cantor's new musical, "Roman Scandals." There are one hundred and one of them—the extra one being Iris Shanna, 19, tall, slender, with dark brown eyes and reddish brown hair, who left her job at the ticket office of a local theater to apply, and was too striking to be rejected even though the quota was filled.
 From metropolitan society came Veronica Ballo, New York girl who is the niece of Cedric Gibbons, art and film director and husband of Dolores Del Rio. As Sandra Shaw she has worked in films for R-K-O and recently signed a contract with Goldwyn, for whom she will be seen in the Cantor film and in the Anna Sten feature, "Nana."

An Ambitious Trek

Among other beauties who made the Goldwyn grade is Myra Bratton, who thought enough of her movie chances to hitch-hike from Montgomery, Ala., where she had been employed by a salve company. She donned boyish clothes and set out alone.

Gigi Parrish, a sister-in-law of the novelist, Anne Parrish, rode to California from Wilmington, Del., with her husband, both on motorcycles. Among southern girls selected, besides Myra, are Helen Wood, Clarksville, Tenn., who won a tri-state contest in Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama with the prize a trip to Hollywood, and Ruth Stovall, Charleston, who already is familiar to cigarette-advertisement readers.

Once Is Enough

All the Goldwyn girls have bits or lines or close-ups, which make them more fortunate than the average movie show girl.
 But to balance that, Goldwyn has a rule that "once a Goldwyn girl, never a Goldwyn girl again." The only exception was made this year in Jane Hamilton, who was chosen for "The Kid from Spain" but fell ill with pneumonia before the film got under way.
 Last year's girls, however, seldom have trouble finding jobs at other studios.

Local NRA Official Notices and Rulings

To the Citizens of Kingston:

The Kingston NRA committee announces that it has no authority to control prices. Paragraph 9 of the President's Reemployment Agreement.

(9) Not to increase the price of any merchandise sold after the date hereof over the price on July 1, 1933, by more than is made necessary by actual increase in production, replacement, or invoice costs of merchandise, or by taxes or other costs resulting from action taken pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act, since July 1, 1933, and in setting such price increases, to give full weight to probable increases in sales volume and to refrain from taking profiteering advantage of the consuming public.

This is the only reference made toward prices in the President's Reemployment Agreement. All who signed this covenant are expected to be guided and live up to the obligations. It has come to our attention that unreasonable price advances have been made taking for excuse added operating cost by the N. R. A. We wish to state again that merchants are expected to make up their increased cost by increased business.

KINGSTON NRA COMMITTEE.

Interpretation No. 21 (Supplementing Interpretation No. 20)—The following paragraph is added at the end of Interpretation No. 20:

"When application is made for approval of such an exception, the application will be handled by the National Recovery Administration in the same manner as applications for relief in cases of individual hardship filed under Paragraph 14 of the President's Reemployment Agreement, provided, however, that the approval of a trade association or other representative organization will not be required."

With this addition, the last three paragraphs of Interpretation No. 20 are as follows:

"Where an employer is bound by the terms of a contract with a labor organization entered into as the result of a bona fide collective bargaining and he is unable to effect a change in such contract by agreement in order to comply with the terms of the President's Agreement with the following exception: 'Except as required to comply with the terms of agreement in effect between the undersigned and'

"(name of organization)"; "It should be understood that his exception can be made only in the case of a contract not subject to change at the discretion of the employer and then only after a certified copy of the contract has been filed with the National Recovery Administration and its approval has been given to the exception stated."

"When application is made for approval of such an exception, the application will be handled by the National Recovery Administration in the same manner as applications for relief in cases of individual hardship filed under Paragraph 14 of the President's Reemployment Agreement, provided, however, that the approval of a trade association or other representative organization will not be required."

NRA PARADE PLANS ARE PROGRESSING

Last evening at the Central Fire Station delegates of the various volunteer fire companies met with Fire Chief Joseph Murphy who is also Marshal of the NRA parade. Favorable action was taken by the delegates to place the firemen in the parade. It is expected the largest number of firemen since the Hudson Valley parade was held here some years ago will be assembled for march. The paid fire department shall also take part in the parade and Kingston's fire fighting apparatus will be demonstrated.

Float Chairman Morris Samter announced that he has already secured colorful floats from Kingston NRA merchants and dealers. Valentin Burgerline, Inc., are planning a large float Blue Eagle which promises to be outstanding. Canfield Supply Co. are arranging a novel and large float. All merchants, dealers, industries of this community are invited to enter floats and expected to cooperate. Several Woodstock artists along with local craftsmen have volunteered aid and will assist in the preparations of floats. Inquiries can be made at the NRA headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. between the hours of 10:30 and 1:30 and from 2:30 until 5 p. m.

Paul Zucca also informed parade chairman Ernest L. Smith that he shall have plenty of good stirring and patriotic music. The American Legion Drum Corps is making a special sacrifice to take part by delaying their departure to Binghamton.

Chairman Ernest L. Smith made the following statement today: "We are calling upon every citizen of this community to assist in making this parade a triumphant success. It is not necessary for me to repeat the invitation which Acting Mayor Heiselman issued Wednesday to all to participate. This is a time for united action and for a common purpose. Let us hope that from August 31 Kingston shall take on new economic life."

life. Yes we hope to make this day a memorable occasion in the lives of our people."

Fire Chief Joseph Murphy again reminds all organizations or individuals who are to take part in the demonstration to communicate with him at the Central Fire Station.

"Yes, there is one sure reason for success of the NRA," said former Mayor Walter Crane of the Ulster County NRA committee today. "It is because the NRA is a move to bring happiness back to homes, and homes are the peculiar province of our wives and our sisters and our mothers. It is they who have borne the brunt of this four years' blight on decency in living; and they are the purchasing agents of America. It is said that women do 80 per cent of buying. It is more accurate to say they almost control 100 per cent of our buying. We can be assured that soon every American housewife will understand that the Blue Eagle on everything that she permits to come into her home is a symbol of its restoration to security."

Colonel Walter C. Donnarumma announced today that a committee has been appointed by General Culliton to investigate the complaints which have arrived. All complaints must be written and signed and delivered either in person or by mail. Complaints shall be handled in strict confidence. Colonel Donnarumma further said: "The policy of handling complaints shall be, first—to explain intelligently to a violator his violation—he will be carefully watched. If he should purposely continue his violations we shall be forced to stronger actions by publishing his name in the local press and by forwarding his name to the authorities who have the power to deal directly with him."

Colonel Palmer Canfield is ready to supply 4-minute speakers to any group organization or club meeting. Commencing on Saturday Colonel Canfield expects to have a speaker into each of the Kingston theatres to convey the NRA message.

MODENA

Modena, Aug. 25.—Friends in this place were saddened to learn of the death of DeWitt Ostrander at his home in Clintondale Saturday, August 19. His political and legal work made him well-known in this vicinity.

Mrs. Alice Weeks has returned to her home in Cottekill, after spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. August Weeks in this place.

Mrs. Simeon Dubois has accepted a position as teacher in the Leptonville public school. She will begin her duties at the commencement of the fall term.

A. Van Keuren of Walden was a regular business caller in this section of the town Tuesday.

Ralph Dewey of Thilson was a business caller in town Tuesday.

Russel Wager spent Monday evening at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Wager.

Mrs. Rulle Ward is entertaining a guest at her home this week.

Eugene Patridge of Ardona was a business caller in town Saturday.

George Matheson and son, Richard, of New Paltz visited relatives in town Tuesday.

Joseph Hasbrouck and son, Joseph, have returned home after spending the past week on a trip to the World's Fair in Chicago, Ill., and many other places of interest en route. They report a splendid trip and wonderful exhibitions of interest on display at the fair.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

Tears Win in Court

Chicago—Members of the International Association of Life Insurance Counsel were given a bit of advice by a fellow lawyer of long experience—Gay A. Brown, former supreme court justice of New York. It was: "Tears in the eyes of a woman witness mean failure for the lawyer who is cross-examining her."

Back to Law Office

Granite Falls, Minn.—Andrew J. Volstead, 73, who once helped write a country's law—particularly the act named for him—is going to practice law once more. He has returned to this city of 1,500 persons where he started his public career and has leased space over a drug store for his law office. Volstead was recently furrowed as legal advisor to the prohibition administration at St. Paul when economies in the federal office were put into effect.

Mean's the Word

Huntington, N. Y.—A skulker who chopped the heads off Louis Nesi's 43 chickens has threatened a whole family with starvation. Nesi, an unemployed carpenter, depended largely on the hens for the support of his family. Yesterday morning he found them all slain in their coop. The only clues were footprints of a man, and a match box.

The Golden Smile

Edmonton, Alta.—Joe Dillon, full-blooded Slavic Indian, is coming south of Fort Smith, N. W. T., for the first time in his life. Bound for San Francisco on a "holiday," he said, after selling a big silver claim for $33,000, his first aim will be to buy gold teeth for himself and his squaw.

Poor Example

Cincinnati—A newspaper advertisement: "Have complete course. 'How to Become a Success,' will swap for room rent."

President in Ellenville

Ellenville, Aug. 25.—Wednesday evening, shortly after 6 o'clock, President Roosevelt passed through Ellenville, enroute to his home after having spent the day at the Ten Mile River Boy Scout Camp in Narrowsburg, N. Y. As the word was passed around the village that the President was expected to pass through, a large crowd gathered in the heavy downpour of rain to pay their respects to the President.

PALENTOWN

Paleontown, Aug. 25.—Little Donald Traver, year old son of John Traver, had the bad luck to have his arm broken. All are sorry for the baby.

Sunday afternoon Mrs. Everett Brannan and daughters, Marian and Bernice, called on Mrs. H. Traver. Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Shuster and daughter, Olive, of Samsomville, and Miss Lear Shuster and Mrs. Fisher of Brookline, and her brother, Stephen Boyett, spent a short time at John Traver's.

The welcome rain will perhaps fill the wells of those who have been carrying and drawing water for a long time.

Little Johnnie Coddington is not very well at this writing.

Miss Mildred Traver, who has employment in Rochester, is expected home some time in September for her vacation.

People in this place are looking forward to the clambake in Samsomville on August 29.

David Paton is spending some time with Joseph Limon.

Mrs. Peter Feltman and children are spending this week at their honeymoon in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dymond of Lake Mohawk and Mrs. Annie Krom called at Eli Coddington's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gray are entertaining guests at their home.

Emily Miller is helping John Traver's mother with her house work.

John Traver was on a business trip to Kingston Monday.

Lewis Canfield of Springtown and his grandson, George Brannan, were trout fishing Wednesday in this place.

"The Commoner"
 The sobriquet "The Commoner" was applied to William Jennings Bryan early in his political days because of his championing of the cause of the common people. After the election of 1900 he established at Lincoln, Neb., a political magazine of wide circulation which he named the Commoner.

"Men's Wear" Opens Here Saturday

"Men's Wear," the attractive new men's apparel shop at 275 Fair street, will open for business tomorrow. The store is under the personal supervision and ownership of H. A. Tweedie and H. A. McAndrew, both well-known young business men of Kingston.

The new establishment will offer a complete line of men's suits, topcoats, and overcoats in a variety of appealing price ranges. A tailor will be in the store at all times to assure customers of speedy alteration requirements. Made to measure suits will also be a feature of the new shop. Men's accessories including neckwear, pajamas, underwear, shirts, hats, and hosiery, as well as jewelry will be on sale.

The store is attractively decorated and furnished, and Mr. Tweedie and Mr. McAndrew invite their many Kingston friends to inspect their new business establishment.

Origin of "O. K." The nationally popular "O. K." which has become "okay" originated during the Mexican campaign of 1890 through the Republican slogan "The People Is OK." "O. K." was the initials of the word "OK."

Kingston: "Strictly Personal"

The story of a couple of gentlemen who decide to commercialize on romance in the theme of this talkie and mystery is also thrown into the play for added effectiveness. Dorothy Jordan, Marjorie Ransome and Eddie Quillan sparkle as best they can in the featured roles, and the play itself turns out to be moderately entertaining melodrama.

Orpheum: "Hello Everybody" and "Lone Avenger." Kate Smith sings her heart out in the first double feature offering, and the famous radio star proves appealing in a role created especially for her on the screen. Many of the singer's favorite songs are brought to the audience, and a capable cast lends ample support to the ample Miss Smith. "Lone Avenger" with Ken Maynard plus his gallant steed Tarzan, rush through a series of hair-raising adventures in this western thriller of gun battles, robbers, fistfuffs, and romance.

Broadway: "Robber's Racket" and "Daring Daughters." The movie version of Zane Grey's novel heads the double feature attraction at the Broadway. It is one of the most exciting and intelligently done talkies of the west, and for thrills, excitement, and rapidity of action, this show leaves little to be desired. A fine cast offers such capable performers as George O'Brien and Maureen O'Sullivan. "Daring Daughters" is one of those sophisticated tales of modern youth, with Marian Marsh, Joan Marsh, Kenneth Thomson and Bert Roach getting into a lot of difficulty at the start of the show, and extricating themselves at the finish.

Tomorrow

Kingston: "Storm at Daybreak"

Serbia, birthplace of the world war, is the setting of this excellent talkie. The story concerns itself with the mayor of a small Serbian town, the mayor's wife, and a young Hungarian officer who falls in love with her. The mayor, who is a personal friend of the youthful officer, sees his wife falling under the charm of the officer, and tries to accept the heartaches like a man. Then into the city rides Archduke Ferdinand, and shortly after his arrival, an assassin murders him, sending the world into the greatest blood-letting game in history. Excitement, romance, reality and beauty are all skillfully blended into this picture, making it a dramatic treat of the first magnitude. One of the outstanding things the show offers is the quality of the cast. Walter Huston, Kar Francis, Nils Asther, Eugene Pallette, Phillip Holmes, and Jean Parker are all featured in important roles. Something to see.

Orpheum: Same.

Broadway: "The Eagle and the Hawk"

A grim study in friendship, brilliantly done, is this tragedy of the war in which two young men, one a renowned ace of the squadron, the other his best friend, work out their destiny in the cockpit of an airplane, with one a suicide, the other a disillusioned hero. Frederick March contributes one of his finest performances in the fascinating character of the ace of the flyers, a man who becomes more and more certain that the whole business of killing is horrible and senseless, and the thought of the constant suffering and brutality that the war imposes is too much for him. He goes to pieces under the strain, and suicides. His best friend, played by Gary Grant, takes the dead body of his pal, straps it into his plane, and heads for the enemy lines. Together they fall, March a hero to his buddies and the world at large, Grant a tragic pawn in the game of war. Jack Oakie handles the comedy end of the talkie in his usual capable style, and Carole Lombard, as the girl, is beautiful and effective in a secondary part. The combat scenes are especially thrilling in this talkie, and some of the air shots are spectacular in their beauty. Although tragic, this talkie is exceptional entertainment.

LIBRARY CABARET GIVEN AT THE NORMAL SCHOOL.

New Paltz, Aug. 23—At the Library Cabaret Thursday night, given in the Normal School gymnasium, the program began with scenes of 1893 when Miss Esther LeFevre came in riding a camel from the streets of Cairo. She was dressed in an 1893 costume and wore a veiled hat. George Manolakis acted as camel driver, and Jimmy Reid and Andy Thomson were the inner mechanism of the camel. Next came girls riding on bicycles to the beach in bathing suits of 40 years ago. Mrs. Arthur Kurtz and Jay LeFevre, who were in costumes of the same year, sang "After the Ball" and "Ta-ra-ra, Boom-de-ay". The audience joined in the chorus. "Varsitiana" was danced by Miss Ruth Seaward, Isaac Bell, Marie Bell and Willard Barnes. George Oates sang "Over the Banister". Mrs. Judson Schoonmaker and Mrs. Arthur Kurtz sang "Annie Rooney". This old-fashioned part of the program was closed by the audience joining in the waltz, "The Blue Danube", played by the orchestra. D. V. Z. Bogert was master of ceremonies.

Then came dance numbers by Helen Mills, Doris and Theima Pollman and Robert Connolly. A popular song dance was given by the Misses Ruth Pine, Frances Buchanan, Ruth Gells and Violet.

Schmalbach. Sherman Barry's show playing was a main part of the program. The film girls were the Misses Mildred LeFevre, Mildred Card and Mary Yost. Flower girls, Helen Blocker, Rose LeFevre, Gertrude Osterhoudt and Catherine Beck. The play "Will You Marry Me" came next with all the characters acting their parts to perfection. The appreciative audience felt well paid for attending the affair.

A Washington Daily Book

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Now that the "new deal" has emerged victorious in its first court test, one of the most important and significant questions of the new administration's program has been raised.

It was something worth watching when the old rulers of Texas came into the District of Columbia supreme court striking the industrial recovery act and saying that it be set aside. Here was a test of one of the most weighty problems that have arisen since adoption of the constitution itself.

The referees complained that the President is exercising powers which must be exercised by congress alone. And when their counsel was asked by the presiding justice whether he thought the act was based on federal powers over interstate commerce or power given to the federal government to meet emergency conditions, he answered daily.

"The act can't be sustained on any grounds."

Then The Court Spoke

But the court, it has developed, indicated that it holds a contrary view, by deciding that all laws, including the constitution, should be read in emergencies in the light of the law of necessity.

The final decision, of course, and one which might mean that the program of the "new deal" will either stand or fall—rests with the supreme court of the nation.

It is highly doubtful whether the supreme court will make a decision on the new laws any time soon. It is almost physically impossible. The court has adjourned until October. With the facilities the justices have at their disposal it would seem almost impossible for decisions affecting the "new deal" to be handed down during the next session which comes to a close in May, 1934.

Necessity Or Precedent

The philosophy of the court as it is now constituted and as it has been revealed in decisions seems to many observers to be liberal. Even without the presence of Oliver Wendell Holmes on the bench this appears true.

While no one can predict what will happen to the new laws when they do reach the court, some believe this will play a prominent part. Meanwhile, speculation continues as to whether the important governmental changes made by the new administration are to be passed upon finally by justices having their eyes on present conditions and not wholly on precedents. In this connection the District of Columbia decision is certain to be pointed to as significant.

Would Borrow to Make Better Roads

Ten million dollars will be made available for the improvement of dirt roads in this state if the federal government responds to a request made of it by the legislature last week.

Both the Senate and the Assembly have passed a resolution introduced in the upper house by Senator Bert Lord, Republican, of Afton, New York, and in the Assembly by Assemblyman Martin W. Dero, Republican, of Binghamton, asking the federal government to allocate ten million dollars to take the farmers of New York state out of the mud.

On an average this will mean ten thousand dollars per town in this state. It will mean not only the improvement of thousands of miles of dirt roads in the state, but it will put thousands of people now out of employment at work.

The federal government has appropriated $3,300,000,000 to speed up economic recovery. This money will be spent on public works. A large part of the money will be raised in New York state and it is only right that New York should receive its share when the money is allocated.

Senator Lord estimates that the roads can be improved with stone and gravel at a cost of from a thousand dollars to twenty-five hundred dollars a mile. This means that under his resolution approximately thousands of miles of dirt roads can be surfaced with gravel and made passable in all kinds of weather. So far as possible the roads will be constructed by local labor and with local materials but under the general supervision of the State Department of Public Works which has approved the program.

And Still Like It

Jud Tunkins says Barum got rich by his discovery that the public likes to be fooled and is willing to pay liberally for it.

PLAN GIVES WHEAT GROWER AN OPTION

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 25.—New York state wheat growers may base their average crop on five year's yields instead of three years as is used in the standard plan if the grower has records for five years and wishes to submit them, according to Lincoln D. Kelsey of the state college of agriculture. This will allow the grower's 1933 acreage reduction to be figured on the five year's average rather than on three years, he explains.

How a grower's wheat is used, whether sold as a cash crop or used on the farm as feed, makes no difference. If the grower who signs the wheat allotment contract promises to reduce his 1933 acreage in accordance with the Secretary of Agriculture's order, not to exceed twenty per cent, he may receive twenty-eight cents a bushel, less local expenses, for fifty-four per cent of the three or five year average crop. The payment is made, twenty cents after September 15 and the remainder in the spring. Applications for the wheat allotment contracts are now available in the farm bureau offices of the sixteen New York counties designated to cooperate in the plan.

The adjustment checks will be made directly to the growers who qualify under the plan and no deductions will be made to offset any previous governmental loan, indebtedness. This applies particularly to growers who hold crop production loans in New York state.

The Girl's Hobby

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

For some obscure reason, hobbies are far more usual among men than among women. Whether this has anything to do with the fact that women seem more liable to nervous smashes than men seems worth considering.

Practically every nervous collapse in middle-life can be traced back to some cause built up in childhood. It seems, therefore, eminently reasonable to start preventing them at the time the foundations of life are being laid.

The woman who has a deep and abiding interest in life is not apt to find herself after her children have gone out into the world, full of resentment and self-pity at the prospect of a succession of empty years ahead, and to take it out in bristling and meanness.

An interest in life is a heritage from childhood, and if we really love our daughters we will see to it that life in itself—not life spelled out in terms of husband and children—holds possibilities of happiness.

To find a hobby for a girl is not easy, for it is going contrary to the traditions of all time, and the girl herself, with only the vaguest conception of the future, and what it may hold is very apt to be indifferent or actually hostile to the development of any special interest.

What particular hobby she may choose need not be determined, but the habit of concentration on something outside the general run of daily events must be cultivated from early and fastidiously upon so firmly that when the intoxication of adolescence is past she may find it ingrained in her consciousness.

Sweden Speeds Road Traffic.

Stockholm (AP)—Government reports revealing that $25,500,000 was spent on roads in 1932, adds that 93 per cent of the nation's traffic is motor-driven and that the highways permit an average speed throughout the country of 30 miles an hour without risk.

Tales Of Heroism From Flood Section

the marooned women. Had the wire been loose there might have been another fatality. However, the wire held and he made his way to the higher ground over the swimming waters. As he dropped from his seat started to the water. He was rescued by the men who were on the shore. The water came up nearly to his neck but he held on and made his way to higher ground where the water was less deep and then the women were placed in the improvised breeches-buoy and hauled back up the guy wire to the top of the pole and three let down by a tackle block. Mr. Under then made his way back.

Throughout the day County Clerk James Simpson and Supervisor Clarence Voss of Standan remained at the scene of rescue giving assistance in the rescue work. Many other citizens whose names were not learned did valiant work.

While rescue work was going on below Phenicia another thrilling rescue was being made at Allaben near the Peral where the Shandakes tumbled empty into the Esopus creek.

There Edward Ocker, Jr., 15-year-old, son of Sergeant Ocker, a veteran of the Board of Water Supply police, made a very thrilling rescue and nearly lost his life. Mr. Neilson and his wife and two children of Jamaica, L. I., were marooned in a cottage which they had rented on the Mahan property. Their plight was learned and efforts were made to reach them by boat but this failed. The water had gradually risen until it was waist deep in the house. Attempts to throw a line to the people failed and finally a line was made fast to the Mahan chimney and young Ocker volunteered to reach the people. The line was finally thrown to the people and made fast and young Ocker then fastened a tackle block to the line and volunteered to make the hazardous trip over the swift water.

Foot by foot he pulled himself along the line. Near the middle of the span the rope sagged and he was buffeted about by the mad waters and several times nearly washed away. He finally made his way to the house and a line which he had taken was used in hauling the marooned people back. The rescue was accomplished about 9 o'clock Thursday morning. Young Ocker had scarcely reached the shack with the line when he fell unconscious from the beating which he had received from the waves and from his efforts to haul himself along the sagging rope. He was revived and Mrs. Neilson was first pulled back to safety over the line. She carried her six-months-old baby with her. Next Mr. Neilson and his four-year-old daughter were hauled to safety and then Ed Ocker came over last. Although badly bruised by the water and exhausted from his efforts he was quickly revived. There is talk of awarding the young man a medal for his act.

Damage in Delaware County

While the lower Esopus was carrying death and destruction on this side of the mountains damage was also being done on the Delaware county side. The bridge at Arkville went out and it was with anxious eyes that residents of Fleischmanns watched the waters of Lake Switzerland, high above the village. Water piled up behind the dam rapidly and before the gates could be opened they were flooded and men were unable to reach them and open them. Water poured down the valley from the Porttown creek when a small dam broke threatening Halcott Center. The Lake Switzerland dam held and later in the day the rain ceased and the water subsided.

Bridges Damaged

Highways and bridges in Ulster county were damaged by the flood waters. Many places on the highways were washed away and in other places undermined and made dangerous.

marooning 164 people at the Fairview Country Club near Oliveira. The long bridge at Mt. Tremper over the Esopus connecting Mt. Tremper and Mt. Pleasant was washed out. This was a two span bridge 235 feet long.

On the Shady road just beyond the bridge near Bearville a section of the highway was damaged by the overflowing waterfall for a distance of 570 feet. This section is passable but dangerous.

On the Willow-Mt. Tremper road many sections of the road along the Bearkill were undermined and the roadways has dropped down in several places making it dangerous to traffic. There is also a slide of considerable size on the road.

Near Halcott beyond the Winnegar a long section of the road along the Esopus was washed away.

The Ellenville road, flooded yesterday by Munciacus creek near Accord, is open today.

Rescue at Zena.
At Zena Mrs. Janet Higgins of Woodstock, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Solomon of New York city and Ted Wiser of New York were rescued from their flooded cottage by Louis Lewis, Scoutmaster of Woodstock, and Harry J. D'Almeida, a line foreman for the Central Hudson company, who with Deputy Sheriff Charles McCullough who sent to the scene by Sheriff Saxe after Mrs. Higgins had notified the sheriff of their plight. The Central Hudson responded with a boat and one of the rescue squad dove in and carried a line to the marooned people.

Lee and Warren Perrine of Yonkers, who are camping on the Finger farm at Mt. Marion recovered two boats with outboard motors attached in the creek there as well as a rowboat which floated down the stream. The motor-boats were owned at camps up the creek.

While the work of rescue was going on Sheriff Saxe and his force at the office were busy calling up various sections of the county where it was known campers were staying along streams. Warnings were sent out for them to vacate low ground and in cases where campers were unreported the sheriff directed searching parties to investigate and give aid to stranded people. Several were given aid by men sent out by Sheriff Saxe.

Railroad Traffic Halted.

Traffic on the Ulster & Delaware or Mountain Division of the New York Central Railroad was halted Thursday when flood waters damaged the roadbed and made traffic unsafe. Later large sections of the track beyond Phenicia were carried out. It is reported that several sections of the roadbed was washed away and the track ties stand on end unsupported.

Father Kennedy of St. Mary's Church, this city, was injured about the leg while engaged in rescue work and was taken to the Benedictine Hospital for an X-ray Thursday evening.

It was reported today by Scout Master Merwin of Tannersville that a group of Boy Scouts between the ages of 14 and 16 had been on a trip up the mountain and had become stranded. The highway from Oliveira up the mountain was washed out in places and bridges are gone and the boys probably have been unable to reach home. The incident was reported to the local Scout office and Sheriff Saxe was notified. Where the lads are from is not known.

Today it was reported that the Longyear bridge in Woodland Valley was badly damaged. This is a new bridge built about three years ago. The bridge was reported as very badly damaged when the approaches were washed away and the bridge is hanging partially unsupported. The Pantherkill bridge in Woodland Valley is out, as is the Dougherty bridge in the same valley. A total of about 40 miles of the Woodland Valley road was washed out.

Approaches to the Donohue bridge at Big Indian have been washed out but the bridge is reported as not damaged.

The Nager bridge on the Oliveira-Curry road is out and people who are stranded beyond were seeking food and aid Thursday.

While there are several slides and much damage on the Willow-Mt. Tremper road today the road was reported as passable but dangerous in places.

Six Cabins Washed Away.
All six of the cabins at Rustic Tavern were washed down the Esopus but two of them lodged in trees and can be again put in service. The other four were washed away and demolished in the stream.

At Phenicia village there was some water flowing through the main street but the Chichester stream did not raise as did the Esopus and the village escaped serious damage. The tennis courts at the village where a tournament was scheduled to be played today were washed out.

A section of road about 50 feet in length was completely washed away on the Kingston-Phenicia road near the Winnegar garage and a gang of men were put to work this morning to make temporary repairs and it is expected to be open to traffic by night. This will give a clear way to Phenicia. County Clerk James Simpson, who was active in the rescue work at Rustic Tavern all day Thursday reached the office here this morning by coming through Willow over the Mt. Tremper road. Mr. Simpson was loud in his praise for the work done by the Central Hudson men and the Kingston and Poughkeepsie firemen at the Rustic Tavern rescue on Thursday. The aid given by Troopers and citizens was equally heroic. Several persons he said had volunteered to attempt to swim with a line to the stranded people but realizing this was impossible the volunteers were prevented from doing it. One resident of Phenicia came to the scene unclad except for a raincoat and could scarcely be restrained from making the attempt. It was only after State Troopers threatened arrest that he gave up the idea. To have entered the debris filled waters would have been suicide.

The two women and three children who had been stranded all night showed the greatest courage and only at infrequent intervals did the children complain. Several times during the night they were heard to call for "daddy" but when daylight came and the rescuers were visible they became calm and showed great relief.

and the rescuers were visible they became calm and showed great relief. For hours they sat in a small cot on the highest spot on the elevation with water swirling about their waists. Had the water risen much higher the small frame structure would have been swept away with the women and children.

President Assured Of Healthy Treasury

Wade Park, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP).—Secretary Woodin assured President Roosevelt today of a healthy treasury well able to handle the $2,399,999,999 public works program. As he left his conference at the summer White House he announced that neither inflation nor his resignation had come up.

The President also sent out word through his secretary, Stephen T. Early, emphasizing that the two speculative topics—inflation and the resignation of Mr. Woodin—had not received any consideration during the over-night visit with the treasury head.

Mr. Woodin gave particular attention to the financing of the public works drive and said it was simply a matter of knowing when the money would be needed by the public works administration.

The two considered the proposed executive order defining aid for the purpose of enforcing the anti-boarded decree. It was indicated Mr. Roosevelt would sign this as soon as Woodin has opportunity to set up the machinery in the treasury for enforcement. This will require about four days.

Government refinancing won attention, too. The regular quarterly financing comes due next month. There was no announcement, however, of the administration's plan on this.

Texas Will Vote on Repeal Saturday

Austin, Tex., Aug. 25 (AP).—Last-minute appeals were made by wet and dry campaigners today as Texas prepared to vote tomorrow on the issue of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment and liberalizing the state constitution to permit manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent beer.

Texas will be the twenty-third state to vote. Twenty-two states previously have voted in favor of repeal.

The campaign of the prohibitionists has been led by United States Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, co-author of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Championing the repealist cause have been James E. Ferguson, ex-governor and husband of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, and Congressman Joseph Weldon Bailey, Jr., son of the late senator and foe of prohibition.

Vice President John N. Garner, vacationing at his home in Uvalde, has remained aloof from the campaign, other than to publicly applaud the appeal for repeal directed to Texas voters by James A. Farley, national party chairman. Garner is an avowed anti-prohibitionist.

More Deaths from Sleeping Sickness

St. Louis, Aug. 25 (AP).—The outbreak of "sleeping sickness," with its focal point in this city and its suburbs, has resulted in deaths in an area from Ohio to California.

Dr. Harold K. Knapp, Cleveland city health commissioner, reported six deaths from encephalitis (sleeping sickness) during the last month and numerous other cases. The death of a Richmond, Calif., draftsman from the disease was announced by the state board of health at Berkeley.

Fatalities in Kansas and Oklahoma have been attributed to the virus disease during the last week. Three deaths reported here in the last day and a rebuke by St. Louis county authorities revealed several hitherto unreported deaths, bringing the total in this immediate vicinity to twenty-eight since the outbreak of the disease July 30.

Every possible method of procedure which might stop the spread of the epidemic is being studied here by three major experts of the United States public health service and St. Louis physicians.

ALLEGED CAMPUS MURDER TRIAL BEGINS TODAY

San Jose, Calif., Aug. 25 (AP).—The state invokes the aid of medical science today at the outset of its efforts to prove David A. Lamson beat his wife to death in their Stanford University campus home last Memorial Day, bringing to a tragic end an apparent idyllic love romance.

Four days of legal maneuvering over selection of a jury ended yesterday with seven middle-aged men and five women accepted by both sides. Two alternate jurors, both women, were chosen.

The prosecution announced it would first call two autopsy surgeons, to testify regarding the four wounds found at the base of the skull of the attractive 25-year-old campus Y. W. C. A. secretary.

At the preliminary hearing two months ago the physicians testified there were three cross lacerations and one diagonal wound at the base of the skull, made, the state charges, by Lamson wielding a 16-inch length of iron pipe which later was found in a bonfire the accused man had been tending in the back yard of his home the morning of the tragedy.

Local Death Record

The funeral of Rosina Costigliani was held from her late residence in East Kingston Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and at 10 o'clock at St. Colman's Church where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Francis O'Brien. Floral offerings were many and beautiful and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were numerous. Interment was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, where Father O'Brien pronounced final absolution at the grave. Bearers were James Rua, Peter Rua, Samuel Costigliani, John Fugelli, Henry Rua and Peter Flore.

Clifford Enniet died at Bloomington Thursday afternoon after a two months' illness. He was a marine engineer in the employ of the Trans-Maine Corporation. He is survived by his wife, who before marriage was Miss Susan Holt; a son, Cornelius; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Enniet; a brother, Laurence; and three sisters, Mrs. Alfred Barrett, Mrs. Grace Radcott and Mrs. Joseph Yunker. The funeral will be held from the home of Mrs. Yunker in Bloomington on Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and from the Bloomington Reformed Church at 2 o'clock. Interment in the Bloomington Cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Thomas Canine, a well known and respected resident of New Salem, who died Tuesday morning after a brief illness, were held at the late home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. M. V. Reddy of Highland officiated at the services, which were very largely attended. There were a number of beautiful floral tributes from a host of sorrowing relatives and friends. The casket bearers were Samuel Jackson, Columbus Redmond, John Brodhead, Irving Snyder, Lee Reynolds and Fred Smith. The Rev. Mr. Reddy accompanied the large cortege to Wiltwyck Cemetery and conducted the committal service at the grave.

Edwin S. Roberts, local silk technician, employed by the U. S. Lace Curtain Mills, died Thursday night at his home, 11 Wrentham street, after a long and serious illness. Although in ill health for some time Mr. Roberts continued his duties as foreman at the local mill until a month ago. Born and raised in England, Mr. Roberts moved to this country in 1902, settling in Governor, N. Y., where he was employed as a silk expert. In 1927 he moved to Kingston with his family and was since employed as foreman at the Lace Mills. Besides his wife, Flora Cleary Roberts, he is survived by one daughter, Hilda; three sons, George, Stanley and Frederick, all of this city. Funeral will be private from his late home, 11 Wrentham street, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

THE JOINERS

GRIZZLY BEAR IS GOING THE WAY OF THE BUFFALO

Washington, Aug. 25 (AP).—The grizzly bear, mighty monarch of the Rocky Mountains, is going the way of the buffalo.

The forest service after its annual census of big game, today estimated the grizzly population in continental national forests at 664 compared with 747 the year before.

Deer also decreased from 969,330 in 1931 to 946,546 last year. Antelope, brown and black bears, elk and moose increased.

Death Penalty Is Signed for Kidnapers

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP).—Governor Lehman today signed a bill providing a death penalty for kidnapers in cases where their victim has not been returned prior to the kidnapers' trial, and providing a penalty of life imprisonment in some other cases.

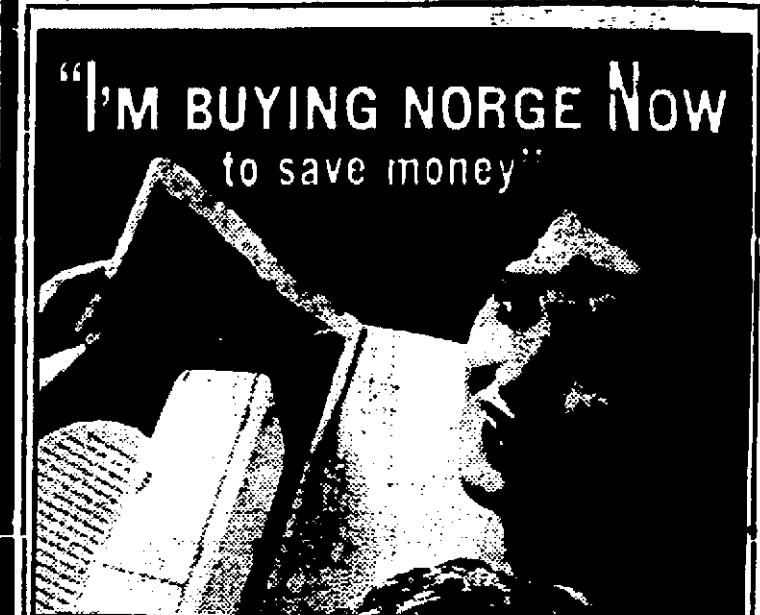

The bill was passed by the Legislature at the extraordinary session ended yesterday in response to a plea from the governor for more severe penalties for kidnapers. The maximum imprisonment for kidnaping, formerly from 10 to 20 years, is now from 20 years to life.

Governor Lehman sent his kidnap-ing message to the Legislature in case of the kidnapping of John J. O'Connor, Jr., almost in the shadow of the state capital, July 7.

Rabbits Hair Costumes With Pointed Shoulders, Ribbed Yoke and a Sailor Collar

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild

At left, is a two-piece dress that features ribbing not only for bodice but for a wide yoke ending in points over the top of the arms. A jacket suit with the notched sailor collar has a ribbed collar. Metal trimming and a striped cord. The model is in rabbit's hair and white gilet on the blouse are favored.

A Sort of Millinery League of Nations

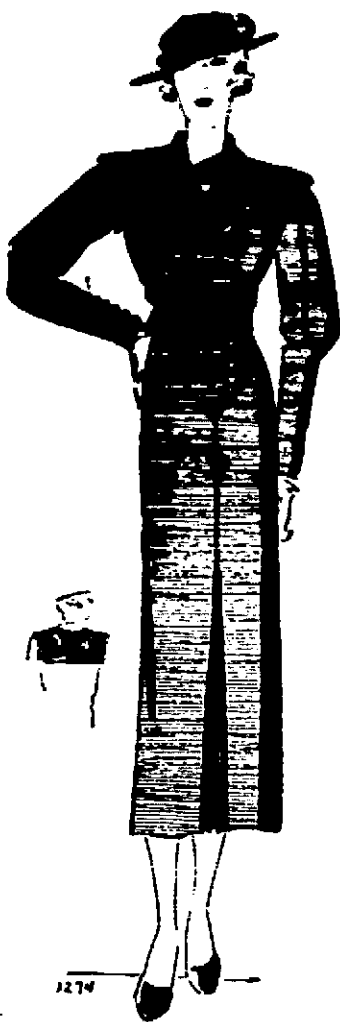

New York—Every lass loves a sailor—or so they say. Anyway they certainly do love what fashion is pleased to call a sailor hat, although nothing more unlike what a sailor actually wears can be imagined. We have learned to like the funny little bob hat too, much like those a sailor actually wears, and every once in a while we decide to love the sailor collar, but never very faithfully or for long. It's just one of those on and off loves.

Spanish sailors have been getting themselves talked about recently. They are dashing—if you're the type, but they can be rather the reverse if you are not. You're bound to find something by way of a hat that will do the right thing by you, this season. If the Spanish sailor leaves you cold, maybe you will react differently to a Cossack turban, or to a Chinese coiffe hat. You may have any or all of them, plus an artist's tam and a pseudo-Floradora hat or a Diamond Lil one "can be had."

Don't forget that a dinner hat is one of the things you will want, and want badly when "he" takes you out to dine. It should be a knock-out, designed simply for that purpose, although incidentally, it is useful in making your hair behave. Evening hats sometimes, but not usually, have no brims, for if these hats have brims, off they have to come at the play. And speaking of brims, and of sailors, as we were a while back, there's our old, old friend the Breton sailor knocking at our door. You'll know him by his turned up brim, and because he is so young and gay.

Just while we were waiting for the autumn clothes to get into action instead of being viewed through plate glass, why not treat yourself to a stunning satin hat? It is just what you need right this minute.

THIS LASS LOVES A SAILOR

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild

An original design for a softly tailored street dress is made of brown crepe faille with ribbing almost as wide as an ottoman. The sailor collar made of all-over stitched crepe soutache braid in the same shade of brown and the "neat" handling of the fabric are interesting style details.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

More and more attention is given the dress that is actually two-piece, or a suggestion of two-piece, with a peplum often giving the impression of a dress in two parts.

OUR DAILY PATTERN

A Popular Style for a Tiny Miss 7951. Platts play an important part in this little frock. It has a comfortable neckline, and a long shoulder line, that drops over the top of the arm to form short sleeve portions. Printed voile is pictured here, with organdy for the yoke. One could use embroidered batiste, crepe, or gingham for this pretty model.

Designed in 4 sizes: 6 months, 1, 2 and 3. Size 2 will require 1 1/2 yard of 32-inch material together with 1-3 yard of contrasting material for the yoke. If made without contrast, it will require 1 1/2 yard of 32-inch material.

"SO HAPPY THAT I TRIED ALL-BRAN"

Delicious Cereal Brought Relief From Constipation

If you have headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read Mrs. Schneider's letter:

"Since I have been eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, I don't have to take anything else for constipation. How good it is, and how much better it is for constipation than pills or any other medicine."

"I would never go back to what I used to take, because Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is wholesome and healthful."

—Mrs. John Schneider, 950 Tenth Street, Oakbrook, Wisconsin.

Constipation is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestinal tract, and vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it cleans out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of pills and drugs—so often habit-forming. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Johannesburg (AP)—Examiners or, directly under his supervision will "pass" or "bunk" J. H. Hofmeyr, South Africa's minister of education, when he sits for a bachelor's degree in law at the end of the year. The minister, who is 38, matriculated at 12, took his B. A. degree at 15 and his M. A. at 16.

BRIDE ELLA 'SHOWS UP' HER MOTHER ON WASHDAY

AMAZING NEW SOAP DISCOVERY

Will Give You A Totally New Idea of FAST Washing and WHITE Clothes

Accept 5 Easy Washings FREE... NOTE COUPON BELOW

THANKS to the world's most famous soap makers, women everywhere are asking and exclaiming "Will the wonders of science never cease?"

For women believed that everything science could do to make washdays easier and clothes whiter had been done for them. And then found they were wrong.

They believed they had the fastest way already. And then found their present favorite was slow, compared to this new invention.

They believed they already had the whitest washes they could get. And then were amazed by still whiter washes.

So—millions now are quitting old-time soaps, bars and flakes, old-type "granulated" soaps for an utterly new and different kind of soap.

A Remarkable, NEW Invention

This new and improved soap invention is called OXYDOL. And it does these things. Things no other soap can do, or has ever done:

It cuts washing time 25% to 50%. And then saves hours of labor.

It works without scrubbing, without rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt.

It makes clothes 50% whiter than old ways. Yet it can not fade or injure either color or fabric.

It is as kind to the hands as the finest toilet soap. For it is created by America's largest soap makers—the makers of gentle "Ivory."

Do you wonder then that women by the thousands are daily turning to it?

How It Works This remarkable invention works an entirely different way.

For one thing, it is especially fitted to the water in each district it is sold. Old-time soaps are not.

The water in this district for instance has been tested for hardness by famous chemists. And the new, improved OXYDOL you get here is made to fit it. This gives you such like rich dairy cream that's whipped.

It contains special, mild elements that soak out dirt—dissolve it—take it out like magic. And these elements are blended with special ingredients to protect colors against fading.

It will change all ideals you have ever had about washing. About whiter washes. About easier washdays.

These things we promise you. For your own sake, try it. Don't believe your present favorite is still the fastest. Try this new invention. Accept package FREE for coupon. Or obtain at any store.

Tells Story About
Michigan Banks

Detroit, Aug. 25 (AP)—Relating his "inside story" of Washington events preceding the Michigan bank holiday, United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, (R., Mich.), told the one-man Detroit bank jury today that as early as February 9—five days before the state's famous holiday—"President Hoover was 'greatly disturbed' over banking affairs here.

FATHER AND SON UNITED IN SHADOW OF DEATH

Milledgeville, Ga., Aug. 25 (AP)—A father and son who had not met in twenty-one years were reunited in the shadow of the electric chair at the state prison farm here.

Ambulance Calls Here.
The ambulance on Thursday removed Mrs. Floyd Barringer from 36
Howland avenue to the Kingston Hospital, and Mrs. Ida Miller from 22 Post street to the Kingston Hospital. This morning Christopher Kegler was removed from 88 Maiden
Lane to the Benedictine Hospital.

Seek Insult's Return
Athens, Greece, Aug. 25 (AP)—The American government was reported today to have demanded once again the extradition of Samuel Insull, who took refuge in Greece after he got into difficulty in connection with the troubles of his utilities interests in the United States.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 25 (AP)—Financial markets today apparently read "restricted inflation" in the announcement of the central banking system that it had speeded up its credit expansion program and priorized all categories were pushed up substantially.

Owing to the fact that the financial district generally had anticipated, to some extent, the broadening of the reserve banks' open-market buying of "government" trading in stocks and staples, while brisk in the morning, had little of the hysterical about it. Shares, after an inaugural whirl, settled down to a steady gait with most of the leaders holding gains of around 1 to 4 points. Gains moved sedately with advances of 1 to about 3 cents a bushel and cotton was up between $1 and $1.50 a bale.
The dollar was again weak in foreign exchange dealings. Secondary bonds were strong.

Shares of Case Threshing, Air Reduction, National Distillers and Western Union stepped up in the neighborhood of 4 points each, while gainers of 1 to more than 2 included
New York Central, Union Pacific,
Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Chrysler,
Goodyear, U. S. Smelting, American
Can, United Aircraft, Westinghouse,
American Telephone, Du Pont, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Allied Chemical and Dome Mines. Home-stock mining was up some 3 points on a small turnover.

Desire To Play "Cop" Gratified In Flood

ROCKAWAY, Aug. 25.—Friends of the country of Harry Bailey, a New York and proprietor of the Rockford Farms at Cold Brook, are wondering if perhaps the genial Mr. Bailey has not secretly nurtured a consuming desire to be a traffic cop, if only for a day. At any rate the desire, if in "Harry's" case found fruition Thursday, and the vehicle of attainment was no other than the traffic tie-up near the Wine Bars following the encroachment of the turned waters of the Esopus Creek upon a piece of public property known as Route 28, of the state highway system. For Mr. Bailey, early sensing the potential danger of motorists, who, unwarned, might plunge over the edge of the hill at that point, promptly stationed himself as a spot and almost immediately was busy shooting back westbound cars and instructing their drivers as to the best way to turn around. The flood waters raged, and the rain, propelled by a heavy gale, beat a lively tattoo upon the macadam, but not to the discouragement of Officer Bailey, who, uniformed in rubber helmet, slicker and boots, stood hour after hour at his post with a sang froid that did justice to any stalwart member of New York City's finest who ever waited Manhattan's traffic hither and thither at Broadway's "Cross-roads" of the "Sixth Avenue" No one saw "Harry" take time off to eat; none beheld him lose his temper, nor could any one help but notice his invariably courteous manner as he set right scores of baffled motorists and answered hundreds of questions bearing on flood conditions in the environs of his post and in fact throughout the upper Esopus valley generally. Indeed, Trooper Coons of the state police, who arrived at the barricade shortly after nine o'clock in the morning, might have experienced a much more wearisome day of it had not Officer Bailey refused to seek relief from his duties until the close of the day, when the old creek had fallen at least five feet and dusk began to fall over the troubled valley. "A very great help to me," were the terse expression of approval with which Officer Coons qualified Officer Bailey's altruistic behavior while on self-appointed duty in the best interests of Mr. and Mrs. General Public, upon the occasion of the great flood of August 23rd, '33.

BAPTIST CHURCH FAIR AND SUPPER A GREAT SUCCESS

West Shokan, Aug. 25.—The annual Baptist fair and supper held Wednesday afternoon and evening was an outstanding success despite the severe storm. Many of those attending came from Kingston, Shandaken, the Rondout Valley and various other communities in and about the Rondout section. There was the usual ready response from the summer boarders in the vicinity.

Although the receipts did not total that of the banner year of 1931, when $200 was realized, under the circumstances the sum realized was more than expected. The affair was under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. Nellie Jones, president, and Mrs. Bertha Thompson, vice president, supervising.

The various booths were very attractively arranged with their displays of quilts and various fancy articles made by the Aid members during the months intervening from fall until late spring. These were augmented by articles of needlecraft donated by friends in and out of the community. All of the quilts were disposed of along with forty aprons and most of the other fancy articles. Those remaining will be placed on sale at the Labor Day picnic or Olive Reunion to be held at Lambert's canopied pine grove on the hilltop near Traver Hollow, at which time the sale of refreshments will be in charge of the local Aid.

One of the booths which proved much in favor offered a variety of well known household and toilet necessities, toy novelties, etc., which were donated by the various manufacturers as an advertising feature. The booths were in charge of attractive young ladies whose winning appeals loosed the pursestrings of all comers.

The program of entertainment which was for the most part impromptu, was arranged from the volunteered talent present. Mrs. Nettie Jones, as an opening feature, came to the platform and in one of her familiar little heart to heart talks in behalf of the Ladies' Aid, expressed keen appreciation for the loyal manner in which the public had so readily participated under adverse conditions toward making the annual fair and supper so outstanding a success. Hearty applause greeted her remarks, and then the kindly lady stood by as little Miss Sarah Roe cautiously came forward and gave a welcome which was accorded another vigorous round of hand clapping as smiling faces beamed their pleasure. The Star Spangled Banner was then rung on the Swiss hand bells by the Rev. Mr. Ahrens with organ accompaniment by Mrs. Ahrens, the congregation rising in accustomed patriotic acknowledgment.

Next an appropriate duet, "Day by Day" was beautifully given by Mrs. Genevieve McLean, soprano, with tenor accompaniment on the chorus by Mr. Ahrens. Mrs. Ahrens presided at the organ. This offering was acknowledged by decidedly appreciative applause, as was the next musical rendition which was featured by Mrs. George Gibbons, a talented singer from Staten Island. Her organ accompaniment was Miss Wye, also a city visitor. Both have favored on past occasions. The selections were favorite time-honored ballads, "Sylvia," "At the Organ" and "Sunshine of Your Smile". Next the pastor gave a short but interesting as well as inspirational talk, the theme of which was "Applying the Golden Rule in Our Everyday Lives", which he concluded with another highly pleasing bell selection, "The Holy City", with solo accompaniment.

At the request of Mr. Ahrens Donald Bishop, a former Sunday school member and now an advanced student of chemistry and general science, was somewhat hesitantly induced to come forward from his secluded place in a rear corner and tell the people regarding his experience as a student of four years in the Mt. Hermon, Mass., prep school established over 50 years ago by the famous evangelist, Dwight L. Moody.

His talk which covered a period of 10 or 15 minutes held the close attention of his hearers and at the conclusion was roundly applauded. He also received the personal thanks of Mr. Ahrens, who asked that Don kindly tell the folks about his airplane trip to Chicago to which he smilingly replied that this trip had not yet been made. Another hand bell selection, a group of favorite hymns, rendered by the talented Mr. Ahrens brought to a close the deeply impressive entertainment so much enjoyed by everyone.

Outside the elements continued their raging and many still lingered after reparing to the supper some below, where the remaining supply of the cream disappeared rapidly. The young folks held a little informal entertainment all their own as they gathered about the organ playing favorite songs which found favor with the older folks, many of whom joined in on the choruses. There was general reluctance to leave and with the rain continuing many of the cars parked without were found almost impossible to get running.

Declares Train Crew Deserves Orchids

Shokan, Aug. 25.—An orchid as Walter Wischell slaugheres his verbal high-priced monologue at those who deserve them—to the crew of that New York Central work train who ran a locomotive and several heavily laden cars upon the Belvidere railroad bridge Thursday afternoon and held them there whilst the angry old Esopus pounded superbly but futilely at the piers and abutments, and even on the superstructure itself.

About noon time the news flashed along the valley by grapevine telegraph (the Morse code wires were out of commission, according to report) that the bridge, which spans the creek a short distance above the north end of the west basin of the reservoir, was in immediate danger of going out. The west bound morning passenger train was tied up at the Cold Brook yards; the milk train was parked for the nonce somewhere further east along the line, when the call went out for the emergency crew to do their stuff. Spectators standing on the stone bridge at the north junction of Routes 28 and 29-A could see the muddy waters dashing furiously against the piers of the railroad bridge, and at times the waves appeared to rush over the tracks above.

The creek at that point was a veritable mill-race, with something like three millions gallons of water pouring rushing towards the Ashokan, at an astonishing rate of speed. The loaded train crawled out on the bridge, tamed the structure and weighed it down, and finally backed off on its triumphal return to the yard. "Those lads have their nerve with them, all right," was the way one onlooker summed up this particular incident in a day replete with adventure for the Central's railroad men. Too bad that the news reel photographers, who were reported to have "shot" the thrilling rescue of a man farther upstream on Friday, could not have included this daring bit of work on the flood front along with the other local thrillers.

CUBA'S PRESIDENT

STARTS HOUSECLEANING

Havana, Aug. 25 (AP)—Taking a firm grip on power, provisional President De Cespedes today issued a decree wiping out all vestiges of the ousted Machado regime, dissolving congress and calling new elections for February 24, 1934.

The measure, signed with the cabinet's approval and effective immediately, declared unconstitutional the Machado administration and its acts since May 20, 1925, when Gerardo Machado was inaugurated president for a second term.

All international obligations are to be observed, however, even though contracted since that date. The action followed a widespread clamor for a thorough housecleaning of the regime that fell two weeks ago.

It was taken over the opposition of United States Ambassador Sumner Welles who, in his capacity as mediator, has maintained that it is necessary to continue constitutional forms.

Wilson And Fraleigh Possible Pitchers In City League Series

With "Specs" Ellis and Ted Fraleigh ready to do most of the pitching for the Morgan Repealers and Ed Wilson, Dewey Van Buren and possibly "Dutch" Ruge to work for the Schryver Lumbermen the second game of the City League series at the Athletic Field Saturday afternoon ought to be a pitchers' duel for any one of the pitchers is capable of going the full route. Manager Morgan might bank on Fraleigh and Manager Slover probably will send Wilson back in again to stop the Repealers, but nothing definite has been announced as to who will be the likely starters.

If Fraleigh and Wilson oppose each other it will be their fourth meeting of the year with Wilson having the edge, winning two out of three by close margins. Jack Robins will do the receiving for the Lumbermen while Jole Hoffman will be stationed behind the plate for the Repealers.

The rest of the lineups most likely will be the same as the first game with the exception of a change at first base for the Lumbermen. Slover is thinking of benching himself and bringing in Johnny Carpenter from the outfield to play the initial sack. Bob McGuire or Hulsair will replace Carpenter if the change is made. Norm Niles will cover second base. Walt Petersen shortstop and "Dutch" Glaser will play third to make up the rest of the infield. In the outer garden "Coke" Tiano and Art Jansen will be in their regular positions.

The Repealers will play Charlie Tiano at first base, Tommy Davitt at second base, Bob Slicker at shortstop and "Lutz" Bruhn at third with Fritz Bruhn held in reserve. In the outfield will be found Jimmy Merritt in left field, Charlie Lay in right field and Pres Knight in the center field.

The Repealers can clinch the championship by winning this game as the team winning two out of three games is awarded the pennant. Starting time will be 2:45 o'clock sharp. Bill Schwab will officiate behind the plate while Dick Dullin will take care of the bases.

Manager Morgan, who predicted his team would win in two straight games, still sticks to that contention. Manager Slover claims the Repealers had all the breaks in the first game and that his team will come back strong to win the next two games.

All Stars to Play Wallkill Sunday

Manager Johnny McCardle will take his Kingston All Stars to Wallkill Sunday for a doubleheader with the Medium Security Prison team which has been taking 'em all over, including the Newburgh Police by scores that make the cops blush every time they are printed.

That his boys will have no easy time is realized by McCardle, who has not announced his pitching choices for the dual bill. "Bing" O'Neil, ace of the Medium mound staff, will start off for the home team. Starting time of the first contest is 1:30 o'clock.

As a special added attraction, the eight-piece jazz band of the prison will play between the games, directed by Harry Malsenholder of Kingston, who is musical instructor at the institution. Vocal selections will be rendered by "Bing" O'Neil and Sam Forbes.

Wallkill games have been drawing record crowds. Last Sunday approximately 1,800 attended the contest at the prison grounds, known as the "Little Yankee Stadium". Many are expected from Kingston to watch the All Stars.

Scores Made At The Ulster Traps

A practice shoot was held at the Ulster County Gun Club traps Thursday evening. Four members of the New Paltz team were getting familiar with the local traps.

The final team shoot between the New Paltz Rod and Gun Club and the Ulster County Gun Club will be held next Thursday at 5 p. m. at the Ulster County Gun Club grounds.

Thursday's scores:

Boston Braves Plan To Be Pennant Victors

Boston, Aug. 23 (AP)—Just 19 years ago the Boston Braves, after coming from nowhere in a little more than a month, were in a first place tie with the New York Giants with a .551 average and on their way to the National League pennant. Today they again stand .551, coming from nowhere to six games behind the league-leading Giants by winning 19 of their last 23 starts, including six in a row. And headed for that self-same pennant, if you will take the word of Manager Bill McKechnie.

"Are we going to win the pennant? Sure we are. Who's going to stop us?" He demands from inquiries.

"Perhaps the Giants will," countered an interviewer.

"And perhaps they won't," was McKechnie's good-natured report to that feeble attempt at repartee.

But McKechnie, veteran of many pennant wars, is much too wise a baseball head to get himself worked up in advance. He was perfectly relaxed and wholly philosophical when he outlined his reasons for his positive views.

"I do not hesitate to predict a pennant for the Braves," he said, "and if you were with them most of the day, as I am, you would feel the same. Defensively our club is the best in the league and our pitching is all that can be desired. Many so-called experts claim we lack the punch to overhaul the Giants. But what we miss on the offense we make up in hustle."

Reminded that the 1914 Braves won with three pitchers, Rudolph, Tyler and James, McKechnie was asked if he intended to rotate his strongest fingers, Brandt, Cantwell, Frankhouse, Betts and Zachary, down the home stretch.

"I should say not," was his positive reply. "I'll throw in Mungum or Smith or Starr whenever it will ease the load. I've been in this kind of a spot too often to get worried about it. What I will do, though, is yank a pitcher much quicker than now on, for Brandt is robust enough to do relief work between his regular starts."

About the only matter that puzzles McKechnie now is how Bill Terry is going to spread his "big four" pitching staff of Hubbell, Schumacher, Fitzsimmons and Parmelee over the three consecutive double headers the Giants must play with the Braves here starting September 1.

But he is not worrying, for the Braves have taken nine of the 14 games against the Giants, who have won only one game in Boston this season.

Jones's Stars Play Royals This Evening

If weather conditions are favorable, Manager Harold Jones's All Star lineup, representing what he contends is the cream of the crop in Kingston, will play the Brooklyn Royal Giants at the Athletic Field this evening, starting at 6 o'clock. A large turnout of fans is expected for the tilt.

Newburgh Police Cannot Play Aug. 30

The baseball game between the Kingston and Newburgh police, scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at the Fair Grounds, has been postponed indefinitely. The game had to be called off because of a celebration to be held in Newburgh on the same date, August 30, requiring all policemen of the city to be on duty.

ST. REMY GAME OFF UNTIL NEXT WEDNESDAY

The baseball game between the Connelly team and Clows Dairy of Kingston at St. Remy has been postponed until next Wednesday.

Sunday the Connelly team will play the Kingston Senecas at St. Remy. Starting time of the game is 3 p. m. Eddie Scherer and Kozlowski will form the Connelly battery. Wiedemann or Mañar and Tiano, the Senecas.

Tagging Major League Bases

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston Braves, a team of opportunists, today had whittled the New York Giants' lead to six games and threatened to shave still more off before the National League leaders clash in a crucial series beginning next Thursday.

Wally Berger's home run bat was muffled yesterday for the first time in three days but the Braves got seven hits pitching from Ed Brandt and took advantage of Bill Hallahan's wildness and Pepper Martin's error to beat the St. Louis Cardinals again, 4-3, and hang up their 19th victory in 23 games.

The schedule gave the Braves a day of rest today but tomorrow they conclude their series with the Cardinals and then entertain the Cincinnati Reds for four days before clashing with the Giants six times in four days. The Giants, held idle again by rain, were to meet Pittsburgh in double-bills today and tomorrow before opening a series with the Cardinals with two games Sunday.

The Chicago Cubs moved within one game of second place with a double victory over the Phillies.

After the Brooklyn Dodgers had won the first game 2 to 0 with Van Mungo hurling seven-hit ball, the Reds, with the veteran Larry Benton pitching, snapped their 11-game losing streak by taking the second game 3 to 2.

In the American League the Washington Senators maintained their eight-game advantage over the New York Yankees, mugging out a 13 to 6 victory over the Detroit Tigers while the champions were downing the Cleveland Indians 10 to 1.

The Athletics and Browns split a doubleheader, St. Louis winning the opener 7 to 6 in ten innings after getting to Bob Grove for six runs in the sixth, and Philadelphia the second 4 to 3.

Another long losing streak was broken when the Boston Red Sox after 11 defeats, trimmed the Chicago White Sox 6 to 1.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

This has turned out to be a great baseball season for performances of the statistical variety as well as a remarkable campaign in general for the major league pitching talent.

Records have been tumbled all over the premises or otherwise subjected to the menace of inspired performances. The only unfortunate feature of this is that the "Little Red Book", long famous as the repository and reference place for baseball's best on record, has been among the minor victims of the depression and not been brought up to date this year.

This has handicapped the baseball "bugs", who like their figures right on tap, as well as the experts, but it has not obscured a stock of unusual achievements, including the following:

- 1—The shutout exploits of Carl Hubbell, ace southpaw of the Giants, who set a new National League mark of 46 consecutive scoreless innings.
- 2—The performance of Dixie Dean in striking out 17 Cubs, for a new all-time record at the present pitching distance, and the companion record of his backstop, Jimmy Wilson.
- 3—The world record scoring streak of the Yankees, who went 308 games—two full seasons—before finally being blanked by none other than Robert Moses' Grove of the Athletics.
- 4—Grove's stunt of fanning five times in one game to equal record.
- 5—The romp of Lou Gehrig, Yankees' first baseman, toward a new consecutive playing record to break Everett Scott's long-standing total of 1,307, which ended in 1925, the year Gehrig began his own streak.

Grove Vs. Yanks
Since Grove shut out the Yankees, I have had a number of queries about the record of the A's veteran southpaw against the world champions.

The notion that Grove had never been very effective against the Yanks has already been exploded. When he blanked them Grove registered the 17th victory of his career against the New Yorkers, as compared with 11 defeats since 1925.

This is a pretty fair record, considering that the Yankees have been out of the first division class only once during the time Grove has been working against them.

Grove Vs. Ruth
The Grove vs. Ruth rivalry furnishes another angle to the debate. The left-hander once remarked that all he did was "pitch and pray" to the big slugger but the record shows he has never yielded more than two home runs in a single season to Ruth and only nine altogether in the last eight years.

A number of other fingers, including George Dauss, Earl Whitehill, George Earnshaw, Ken Holloway and Milt Shoffner, have been particularly "soft" for the Babe. Before Dauss retired from the Detroit staff he was combed for 14 homers by Ruth. Whitehill and Earnshaw have yielded about a dozen each.

Walter Johnson's fast ball was nipped for ten Ruthian circuit clouts before the famous Washington right-hander retired from active duty on theiring line.

Newman Led East To Football Victory

Chicago, Aug. 26 (AP)—The far west's football warrior tested the wizardry of Harry Newman, Michigan's magician of the gridiron—and lost.

Playing one of his greatest games, the All-American ace of the Big Ten football wars led the eastern forces to a thrilling 13 to 7 triumph over the west in the all-star game before 25,000 spectators at Soldier Field last night.

Newman eclipsed the field with spectacular runs, punt returns, line smashes, and generalship to confer the victory. Forty-five hard picked stars, gathered for the engagement by Coach Howard Jones of Southern California and Coach Dick Mulloy of Northwestern, fought in the inter-sectional battle.

Deadlocked at seven-all after three quarters of battling, Newman, after Jim Purvis of Purdue intercepted a West pass on West's 34 yard line, ran 11 yards around his right end and almost got away for a touchdown, he then passed a bullet like heave to Gene Rossmann of Marquette, who went over for the winning score.

The East was the first to score after being threatened twice. Ray Horstmann of Purdue, plunged over on three blasts at the line for a touchdown after Gull Berry of Illinois had passed to Baker of Northwestern and Horstmann for two gains of eight yards each. Jack Manders of Minnesota placed kicked the extra point. The West tied the count in the second period when Dick Nimitz of Washington blocked a punt of Wesley Foster of Ohio State and ran 15 yards for a touchdown. Johnny Baker of Southern California helped with a perfect placement. Then after a series of punts and breaks, Newman led the Easterners' victory march which ended after his brilliant pass in the fourth quarter.

North Rondonters to Play Poughkeepsie

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Haverbrook Park baseball diamond, the North Rondont Social Club team will line up against the Poughkeepsie P. N. A. team. It is expected that there will be a crowd on hand for the battle.

Poughkeepsie probably will see Bodge on the pitching mound. Last week he struck out 15 batters on the Kingston P. N. A. team. Eddie Baker, southpaw star of the North Rondont Club, will turn 'em over for his team and Jimmy DeCicco will catch.

Stone Ridge Wrens Camp.

The Stone Ridge baseball team is without a game for Sunday. Teams interested should call Edg. Paltz 45-P-14.

Yesterday's STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Van Mungo, Dodgers—Blanked Reds with seven hits.
Ed Brandt, Braves—Stopped Cincinnati with seven hits.
Dixie Walker, Yankees—Raked Indian pitching for double and two singles.
Goose Goslin, Senators—Pounded two homers in triumph over Tigers.
Irving Burns, Browns—His single in 11th drove in run that beat Athletics.
Johnny Welch, Red Sox, and Lule Appling, White Sox—Former scattered eight hits and fanned 19 in opening; latter tripled in tenth to drive in winning run.
Guy Bush, Cubs—Blanked Phillies with three hits.

VINES CLEARED OF PROFESSIONAL CHARGE

New York, Aug. 25 (AP)—Ellsworth Vines had been cleared of all suspicion of professionalism today and was free to concentrate on defense of his National Singles Tennis title at Forest Hills next month.

A two weeks' investigation into the California's amateur status, especially with regard to his connection with professional offers, had ended in complete exoneration by the amateur rule committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The committee, after an extensive examination of the champion's personal papers and correspondence and "cross examination" of Vines himself, found that the Californian had not violated the amateur rule and ruled there was no basis for charges of any sort against him.

Chief impetus of the investigation was furnished by widespread reports that the Californian's prospects of turning professional hinged upon his showing in the Nationals where he will be seeking his third successive crown.

Another report which received wide circulation said Vines would lead a wholesale jump of leading amateurs into pro ranks. Linked with him in this rumor were Heni Cochet of France, Fred Perry of England, and Jack Crawford of Australia.

CONSULT YOUR WIFE for Sound Advice....

MR. MAN, you may know more about the intricacies of the stock exchange, more of high finance, more of the whys and wherefores of politics, more of this and that—

BUT, when it comes to shopping, your wife has probably got you beat six ways to the jack-pot.

Now don't let your male egoism get the better of you and just say, "The bl—k she has."— think about it. After all, women have made it their business to be good, economical shoppers. They devoted thought and effort to the business "you haven't had time for."

Go to your wife and ask her how she handles this shopping proposition. She'll tell you, "Well, the first thing, and it's the most important, too, is to read the ads in the Daily Freeman."

And then she'll be glad to demonstrate for your benefit exactly how reading the ads led to economies and advantages in the purchase of everything from that club steak you liked so well last night to the new dress you've just been admiring.

Then, too, she'll probably welcome the opportunity of proving to you that she can save you money and assure you of better quality by buying your shirts and socks and such for you after checking the ads. Why not let her try it? She is a real expert at this shopping business. Above all, don't forget to follow her advice when you're shopping for yourself and check the ads in this paper before you start out to do your buying.

The DAILY FREEMAN

HOLY YEAR TO ADD
FOUR MORE SAINTSCanonization Is Impressive
Vatican Scene.

Vatican City.—Holy year will see four new saints added to the long list of the Catholic calendar as well as a number of new "beats," which is the rank of sanctity immediately below that of a saint.

To become a saint in the Catholic church is a difficult matter, and the various processes which lead eventually to the candidate being given what are called the "honors of the altar" may last as long as a century. This is not, of course, the average period required, but there have been cases which have taken as long, or even longer.

Three Steps Necessary.—"Venerable," "Blessed" and "Saint" are the three steps in the scale of sanctity.

The sacred congregation of rites in the ecclesiastical office which deals with canonizations, and the whole procedure has a close analogy to the proceedings in a court of justice.

There is a "postulator" for the person whose claims to sanctity are examined, and this office corresponds closely to that of the lawyer for the plaintiff.

There also is the devil's advocate, whose office has a sort of resemblance to that of a state's attorney.

The duty of the devil's advocate in canonization trials is to pick holes in the case.

When a person has been made "blessed" by the church, the day comes when he or she is to be raised to the dignity of the altar.

A solemn ceremony takes place for the purpose at the Vatican, where the pope holds what is known as a semi-secret consistory.

Seated on his throne in the hall of benedictions, his holiness faces an assembly of cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops, and bishops. All the bishops within a radius of one hundred miles are summoned.

Cardinals on Hand.—Grouped around are the cardinals. They wear their red robes surmounted with ermine capes. On their heads are small red skull caps.

A monsignor of the sacred congregation of rites introduces the name of the "process" to the consistory. Then the pope delivers a brief address, extolling the virtues and holiness of the person.

The voting which then follows is merely formal, for the congregation of rites already takes for granted the agreement of the cardinals and bishops to the proposed honor.

The holy father asks the assembled cardinals and bishops for their approval of the title of saint for the candidate. The cardinals answer by removing their little red skull caps.

Doctors Restore Girl's
Speech by Hypnotism

Cincinnati, Ohio.—Resorting to hypnotism, Dr. Meyer Zeligs and Dr. Mel Welborn of the General hospital here, restored her speech to a fifteen-year-old girl.

When the girl, deprived of speech by a mysterious paralysis of her vocal cords, failed to respond to orthodox treatments, the doctor resorted to a formula of passes and words associated with the occult arts.

She was placed on an operating table and commanded to "speak."

"You have no feeling in your skin at this point," one of the physicians told her. He pressed a pin point to the spot indicated. There was no response.

"Speak!" was the next command. The girl's mouth opened and she spoke.

Railway School Travels
5,000 Miles Annually

Douglas, Ariz.—The "Little Red School House on Wheels" teaches 8,000 pupils annually, has no "vacation" for its teacher, William Nichols, and travels 10,000 miles every two years.

William—pardon—Professor Nichols is known as a "rule examiner" for the Southern Pacific railroad yards, visiting all terminal and division points, "teaching" all employees in the "operating class."

Nichols' movable schoolroom is a standard size passenger coach, altered to meet the needs of the teacher, the pupils and the equipment. It has been in use 16 years.

The railroad "school" will be attended by 200 men here. Professor Nichols said. He has "taught" some of them for more than 20 years.

Pugilistic Abilities of Wife Wins Hubby Divorce

Brooklyn, Mass.—George Beck was a divorcee here by stressing his wife's ability as a pugilist. "My wife was a natural born fighter," he said. "She possessed a good right hook, which she used quite frequently on my chin." Beck admitted he weighed 100, but declared his wife had a 20-pound weight advantage.

Oregon Judge Lets Man
Pay Fine With Onions

Grants Pass, Ore.—"The fine is strong, but I guess you can stand it," said the judge, penalizing V. C. Bishop for failing to stop his truck for a through street. He agreed to accept 200 pounds of onions in lieu of $5. Bishop did not have.

Doctor Taster's Fast

Tag Day Proclamation
For A. M. E. Zions

That the churches of this city have been able to carry on their most important work for the spiritual welfare of our people in the trying times through which we have passed justifies commendation.

On account of the unusual amount of unemployment among the parishioners of two of our churches it is necessary for them to seek outside financial aid to keep up their work for the Kingdom of the Lord. They are doing good work against many odds. They are worthy in every way of support.

Therefore, I proclaim Saturday, August 26, Tag Day for the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church, of 26 Franklin street, and the Emanuel Baptist Church, of 157 East Union street, and ask that the citizens of the city who are financially able give Tag Day their generous support.

CONRAD J. HEISELMAN,
Acting Mayor.

Endorsement Given
Legion's Efforts

The American Legion drum corps has attended every state convention of the American Legion since it was organized. As a matter of civic pride, whenever they have appealed for assistance it has been given, in order that Kingston might be represented in the parade representing practically every city in the state of New York. In this way the name of Kingston has been advertised in all sections of the state and elsewhere in the United States.

The convention parade will be held this year in Binghamton on September 1. The drum corps plans to leave Kingston on August 31, immediately after the NRA parade.

During the next few days members of the drum corps will conduct a campaign with automobile stickers to raise the funds necessary for transportation and housing.

I encourage the campaign and urge those citizens of the city who are financially able to give it their usual generous support.

CONRAD J. HEISELMAN,
Acting Mayor.

DISMISS PETITION OF LONG ISLAND RESIDENTS

Washington, Aug. 25. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today dismissed a petition of Long Island residents for prompt passenger train routes and joint passenger fares between points on the Long Island railroad and New England points.

The petition was brought against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and other roads serving New England by the Nassau County Village Officers Association, which alleged that failure to establish through passenger routes and reasonable joint fares between Long Island and New England was "unreasonable."

The association asked: "That defendants be required to establish through passenger train routes and joint passenger fares via the Hell Gate bridge between all points on Long Island served by the Long Island and points in New England served by defendants."

The commission pointed out there were no through passenger routes between points on the Long Island and any point beyond the terminal of that line in the Pennsylvania station, New York city. It said joint inter-line tickets are now sold from any point on the Long Island to any point in New England over routes embracing lines of defendants for use in connection with trains departing from either the Pennsylvania Station or Grand Central Station. The commission found:

"We are of the opinion and find that serious operating difficulties would be encountered in the establishment of the through train service sought; that it would be less convenient and equally as expensive to passengers as the existing service; that the establishment of through passenger train service between points on Long Island and points in New England over the routes described has not been shown to be necessary or desirable in the public interest, and that the existing passenger service and fares have not been shown to be unreasonable or otherwise unlawful."

Howe About: Rondout Creek Flooded Strand

The Arctic Circle Communism Farmers in Russia

By ED HOWE

I HAVE lately been wondering if I am a Communist, and I am not. I am a man who has been a Communist since 1900. In 1900 a man named Robert Marshall went to the town of Wadsworth, north of the Arctic circle, and remained there for a year. Recently he has written a book about his experiences while there. The inhabitants number 177: 75 whites, 44 Eskimos, 3 Indians, and 1 light-colored. Forty-five of the whites are native born, and 32 foreign born: Germans, English, Scandinavians, etc. A fair cross section of the people of the United States, living so far from what is commonly called civilization, and being snowed in six months of the year, one would think they lived like savages.

On the contrary, their average in all respects is higher than ours.

One white and two native women profess to be religious, but the rest of the inhabitants pay less than usual attention to the subject, and there is no disturbance about it. When there is an occasional case of poverty or distress (both very rare) it is promptly and generously relieved, although there are no welfare workers in the town. Nor is there any stealing, and violence is unknown, except a tradition that a crazy man once killed a native; sentiment is strongly opposed to quarreling. There are no newspapers, politicians, pastors, policemen, judges, lawyers, doctors, teachers, movie plays, or welfare workers of any kind.

Mr. Marshall gave forty-five of the adults, and most of the children, the commonly accepted intelligence test, and found that 45 per cent ranked above our average. Times are always hard, and nature harsh, but the people manage to get along comfortably and decently. Some are well-to-do, some middle class, and some poor, but there is no rioting about it, all being given the same opportunity.

This history seems to indicate that the troubles of the average civilized community are largely artificial, and introduced by the reformers; also, that those of us in civilization, in trying to get rid of our troubles, become less intelligent, less effective, and less moral.

I believe one bugaboo with which men have long frightened themselves may be safely given up. I refer to Communism. Men will continue to be mean, idle, foolish, but the worst of them have lost respect for the contention of Karl Marx that the best solution of the human problem is for all men to pool their work and earnings, and, at the end of the week, divide equally.

Everybody knows and admits now that individualism-capitalism (every man handling his home, his job, his family, to his own taste) is the best way because it is the human way; we have at last admitted some men will not work, and that the industrious will not divide with them. I think we may also dismiss the old fear of general rioting, burning and murder. Men are still mean enough to do these things, but are discovering there is no common sense in burning such houses and food supplies as we have; that it is easier to possess them through election booths or judges; that instead of killing industrious men, it is better and easier to let them accumulate more that may be stolen.

The friendliest critic of the Russians, Walter Duranty, says the Russian town people and soldiers have plenty of food, but that millions of farmers are dying because of malnutrition: which means disease caused by lack of food. In the United States town people have never been that rough with farmers; we have made fools of them, but always allowed them enough to eat.

I have known men a long time, and had occasion to remark many cases of extreme shiftlessness, but believe men are more shiftless now than ever before. A man of forty-five (and who confesses he is healthy), in writing to me for help, says: "I have no one to appeal to now except my sister Ruth, but she has been sick three years, and unable to do anything for me." I have observed also that more men than usual are lately "working" the women. Note any woman who has achieved considerable prosperity as a result of the new freedom, and you will find a lot of men hanging to her skirts; one successful actress confesses she is supporting seven families.

A tramp said the other day he is nearly always roughly rebuffed or insulted if he asks for work, but that anyone will give him a dime or a quarter, with a kind word, when he says he is hungry.

Baltic says every man of sixteen or seventeen falls in love with a woman much older, and has trouble if he marries her.

The allied nations agreed it was a good idea to compel Germany to pay the cost of the World war, and occupied the country with soldiers to see that the Germans did it.

But there was one serious weakness in the plan: Germany couldn't do it, so the allies withdrew their troops, after spending a good deal of money foolishly.

MODEL OF OLD IRONSIDES OFF FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR

Washington, Aug. 25. (AP)—A model of Old Ironsides, which has been a guest at the White House for weeks, winning ship-lovers' President Roosevelt's approval, was off today for the World's Fair.

"A splendid model of my favorite ship," was the President's written testimonial after he had watched its maker, Theodore Morales, of Evanston, Illinois, manipulate its intricate mechanism. Its fifty-four brass cannon can all be fired. Its compass points north. All its wheel pulleys work. Its yard-arm swings out. A windlass lowers its anchor.

Morales said he worked five years to make the model.

Among Italian Spas. The Italian island of Brioni is a noted watering place in Istria. In the days of the Roman empire Brioni was already a seaside resort for the aristocracy, with temples, baths and villas, ruins of which still beautify the island.

Must Do Best to Retain Position

The NBA county committee has asked The Freeman to publish the following statement: There is nothing in the President's re-employment agreement, or in any code that excuses any employer or employee from doing his best work and making the most of his or her job. The government is cooperating in every way to bring back business conditions which will afford every citizen a good fair standard of living, but the government cannot do the work alone. Therefore in the job you are doing in the profession to which you belong or in the business which you operate there is no relief ahead from efficient and loyal service. The best merchant is still trying to do the best business and the most efficient worker is going to get the best job.
